THE ENERGY CRISIS HEATS UP

Firewood, becoming a rare and valuable commodity in Marin, is split by workman Patrick Callaghan of Bob Herman Supply Co., 3825 Redwood Highway. The firm, stocked with a seasonal supply of 300 cords of oak logs in October, has sold all but 50 cords. Merchant Alfred Oliver (center), manager of the Short Stop Market at 1410 South Novato Boulevard, appears grim as he hikes the price of a bundle of oak wood from $1.29 to $1.49. Meanwhile, Laura Connell, 13, of 49 Grand Vista, Novato, bundles up to read a book beside a roaring fire and a kerosene lamp converted to candle power.

Usher Named To Mill Valley Post

Ronald L. Usher, administrator of the city and borough of Juneau, Alaska, was hired today as the new city manager for Mill Valley.

Usher, former town manager of Corte Madera, had earlier today told the Independent-Journal he would accept the $25,000 Mill Valley position if offered. "I'm on my way out up here," Usher said. "If they want my services they can get them."

The 38-year-old administrator was the unanimous choice of a special seven-member advisory committee, headed by San Rafael City Mgr. William J. Bielser, but the offer had been held up since Saturday because of a split on the city council.

Mayor Jean S. Barnard and Councilman Robert E. Burton favored the hiring of Donald Weidner, currently city manager of San Juan Capistrano in Orange County.

Usher accepted the Juneau job three years ago and spearheaded a move to consolidate the city and borough (county) under one administration.

Recent changes on Juneau's governing board, however, signaled the end of Usher's employment and through a "mutual agreement" he is to resign about Feb. 1, he said.

Besides Mill Valley, he had applied for the top administrative position in Modesto but preferred Mill Valley.

Vice Mayor Edward J. Boessenecker, who phoned Juneau to offer Usher the job, said the new city manager was asked to take over Jan. 16 if possible, but no later than Feb. 1. Usher, being paid $30,000 in Juneau, will suffer a $5,000 drop on moving to Mill Valley.

Mill Valley City Mgr. William Cunningham is to leave the job Jan. 1. He announced his resignation two months ago after a running battle with Mayor Barnard.

Usher emerged as top choice of the seven-member committee last Saturday after it interviewed at least five of the eight finalists chosen by the council.

He served from 1965 to 1970 as town manager of Corte Madera before leaving the job for a more lucrative position in Juneau.

He is married and father of three sons.

Mentally Ill Losing Out In Marin

The situation for Marin County's mentally ill residents, caught between the closing of state hospitals and lack of local facilities, is bad and getting worse.

This was the picture painted last night for the members of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board by Dr. Robert L. Taylor, county mental health program chief, and other speakers.

The state administration has adopted a policy of cutting back on state hospitals for the mentally ill and retarded with many of these persons expected to be cared for in their home communities.

The few local facilities for the mentally ill, like those for the severely retarded, now face closure because state funds are not sufficient to pay their private operators to keep them open, Arthur Segal, county mental health coordinator, said the board was told.

Segal said board members were told last night that Mission Guest House and Stewart residences, both in San Rafael,

50 Is All Right In Slower Lanes

A large number of Marin motorists, attempting to conserve gasoline, instead are increasing highway hazards by driving 50 miles per hour in high-speed freeway lanes, the California Highway Patrol said today.

The patrol urges drivers reducing their speed to 50 to do so in the far right freeway lane. Until legislation is passed cutting speed limits, the maximum California speed remains at 65 miles per hour, according to Officer Myron R. MacNeil of the Corte Madera station.

"A car going 50 miles per hour in the left-hand lanes impedes the flow of traffic," MacNeil said, citing a 30 per cent increase in slow driver violations since a presidential appeal to cut auto speeds. "This increases rear end collisions, causes faster cars to cut in and out to pass and leads to frustration and anger on the part of faster drivers."

Although highway patrol officials realize that 50-mile-per-hour drivers feel they are doing their bit to relieve the gasoline crunch, MacNeil said, tickets will be issued to motorists who interfere with traffic flow by driving under the speed limit in left lanes.

Marin Could Escape Stiff Parking Rules

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A way out from under severe new federal restrictions on parking, at least for relatively clean air areas such as Marin, was offered yesterday by a Bay Area Air Pollution Control District official.

David T. Mage, a professor of chemical engineering at San Jose State University, cited a federal regulation that clearly allows for special treatment of such areas.

Counties like Marin were stuck with the same tough restrictions needed in the South Bay only for administrative convenience, he told the Independent-Journal.

Mage, a member of the district's advisory council, said he was especially concerned since he fills the council slot reserved for organized labor. The restrictions will have "billion-dollar impacts" on Bay Area citizens and employment, he warned.

The long list of controls ordered by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency include annual surcharges of $450 for each parking space that now is free and an hourly surcharge of 25 cents on parking meters. They also prohibit most new parking facilities.

Mage pointed to a list of "stipulations" to the regulations EPA published in August 1971, to back his assertion that Marin does not have to suffer the same restrictions as other areas of the nine-county region. The agency declared that "nothing in this part shall be construed in any manner . . . to encourage a state to adopt a control strategy (parking re-

Chapin Is Charged On Four Watergate Counts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dwight L. Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary, was indicted today on four counts of lying to the Watergate jury.

The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury impaneled last August to investigate alleged "dirty tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign and related matters stemming from the Watergate case.

Chapin, who left the White House staff early this year and is now an official with United Air Lines, was charged with four counts of making false declarations to the Watergate panel last April 11.

The charges are similar to perjury and are punishable by a maximum penalty of $10,000 and five years in prison on each count.

Each count of the indictment, opened by Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, charged Chapin lied about his relationship with Donald H. Segretti, an old college chum of Chapin's who recently pleaded guilty to a three-count charge of violating federal election laws.

Segretti is serving a six-month sentence in a federal detention facility in California.

DWIGHT L. CHAPIN

Segretti admitted distributing campaign literature during the Florida Democratic presidential primary last year falsely alleging sexual misconduct on the part of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

The first count of the indictment against Chapin charged that he lied when he told the grand jury that he was not familiar with Segretti's distribution of campaign literature.

The second count charged he lied when he said he suggested that Segretti talk to the FBI.

The third count charged he lied when he said he could not recall giving Segretti directions or instructions about which Democratic presidential candidates to concentrate on as part of a GOP effort to disrupt their campaign.

Count four charged Chapin lied when he said he did not know what Segretti had been paid for his activities.

The indictment was obtained by the political action task force of Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Each count in the indictment quoted Chapin's exact testimony before the grand jury and said his statements "were material to the ... investigation and, as he then and there well knew, were false."

According to testimony before the Senate Watergate committee last summer Segretti was hired by Chapin to be a political operative for Nixon's re-election campaign. With $40,-

Post Office Sees First Signs Of Yule Mail Rush

Although local postal officials are not yet deluged with holiday parcels, they report signs that the annual rush is beginning.

Parcel post volume is about 10 per cent greater than usual for this time of year, according to San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy. "The additional parcel post isn't causing any problems for us," he said, "and we haven't had to take special steps to handle it."

But within a matter of days, Cassidy said, the rush should begin in earnest. He predicts this year's rush will begin during the first week of December. Normally, the postmaster said, peak holiday periods are in mid-December for outgoing mail, and a week later for incoming.

The Postal Service encouraged early mailing this year, he said, because fuel shortages are cutting the number of airline flights, he pointed out.

Locally, Cassidy said, fuel shouldn't be a problem. "We've got enough fuel in Marin to get us through December," he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Impeachment Call

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., last night called for impeachment of President Nixon as the "only honorable way" to restore a sense of justice in the United States.

"We demand that justice be done," the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee told a University of North Carolina audience. "The agency is Congress and the remedy is impeachment.

"It is time to tell those who have violated the trust of the people 'enough!'... McGovern said. He said the public could no longer support a president that offers up "a lie of the week."

Election Pledge

ATHENS (UPI) — The new military-backed regime, which came to power to head off next year's scheduled elections, has promised to go along with free balloting in Greece "when the country is ready."

Premier Adamantios Androutsopoulos said yesterday the new government was in favor of an eventual return to democracy, but would not be bound by any timetable.

"When the country is ready, it will be led to elections," the premier said in a 55-minute radio and television address.

"We do not intend the establishment of a regime. Our ambition is to prepare the country for the undisturbed and purely democratic life."

Peace Move

LONDON (UPI) — Middle East sources said today Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would intervene personally to try to improve the deteriorating climate for the projected peace conference in Geneva next month.

The sources said both sides in the Arab-Israeli conflict have hardened their positions in the past few days and that this could hamper the early stages of the Geneva talks.

Kissinger was expected to urge them to be open to compromise. Kissinger, who will be in Brussels and London early in December, plans to visit Tel Aviv and possibly Cairo only a few days before the Geneva talks are due to begin Dec. 18.

Streets Blocked

BELFAST (UPI) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army barricaded streets inside Belfast today, adding to a dozen highways still closed by an IRA road blocking operation across Northern Ireland.

Police said IRA extremists opposed to plans for a coalition government hijacked two buses and four trucks in the capital last night and used the vehicles to block Belfast streets.

The authorities said the Belfast hijackings forced officials to halt bus service in the city's Roman Catholic areas.

Student Revolt

SEOUL (UPI) — Hundreds of students battled riot police and launched demonstrations today demanding a pledge from Korean President Park Chung-hee to return to democracy.

About 1,000 Yonsei University students threw rocks at 300 riot policemen in the streets. The police hurled cannisters of tear gas at the young people.

The largest demonstration began last night when 3,000 Ehwa Women's University staged an overnight sit-in at the school auditorium. When authorities announced they had decided to close the school for three days, the women left and went home.

Executive Death

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Members of a leftist guerrilla group claimed yesterday they killed an American Ford Motor Argentina executive last week during an attempt to kidnap him.

In a letter to the newspaper El Mundo, the Peronist Armed Forces expressed no regret for the deaths of John A. Swint, 56, of Highland Park, Mich., and two of his bodyguards.

Swint and the two men were killed and a third bodyguard seriously wounded in a machinegun ambush in the industrial city of Cordoba, northwest of Buenos Aires.

Hanoi Charge

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam for the second time in two weeks today accused the United States of violating the Paris peace accords by sending spy planes into its air space.

On the battlefield, Communist troops shelled a government base near the former imperial capital of Hue with more than 700 rockets and mortar rounds in seven hours, military sources reported today.

A US Embassy spokesman refused to confirm or deny the charge by Hanoi that a supersonic SR71 reconnaissance jet flew over central Nghe An province of North Vietnam twice yesterday.

Robbery Try Proves Fatal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A cab driver shot and killed a passenger who he said tried to rob him last night.

Driver Joseph Harrison, 53, said the passenger put a gun to his head but that he knocked it away and pulled his own gun.

Looking Ahead At The Weather

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The National Weather Service has come up with what may prove to be its most closely watched forecast—a broad-brush picture of where it will be warmer and where it will be cold this winter.

The difference will mean shivers or warmth for Americans faced with a shortage of heating fuel that threatens to last until the spring.

In short, the service forecast warmer temperatures in the Midwest and most of the South and Southwest and colder than average readings for the West Coast and the northern Great Plains. Temperatures for the East Coast, the central Great Plains and Southern California were expected to go either way.

A spokesman for the agency called the December-February forecast "highly speculative" and noted that while similar reports have been prepared for the last 15 years for use by government agencies, they have not been made public because they were "considered too marginal in reliability for general release."

They were announced this year because of intense public interest, he said.

There were these other developments:

The Arab oil-producing nations moved at their summit in Algiers to classify their customers as friendly, hostile or neutral and supply them accordingly. Their oil embargo against the United States and the Netherlands, whom they have cut off for being allies of Israel, was extended to the white regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia, and to Portugal, which has territories in Africa.

A United Press International survey showed that the nation's airlines are planning drastic measures in case they run short of jet fuel. American Airlines will lay off 214 pilots in January, a spokesman said.

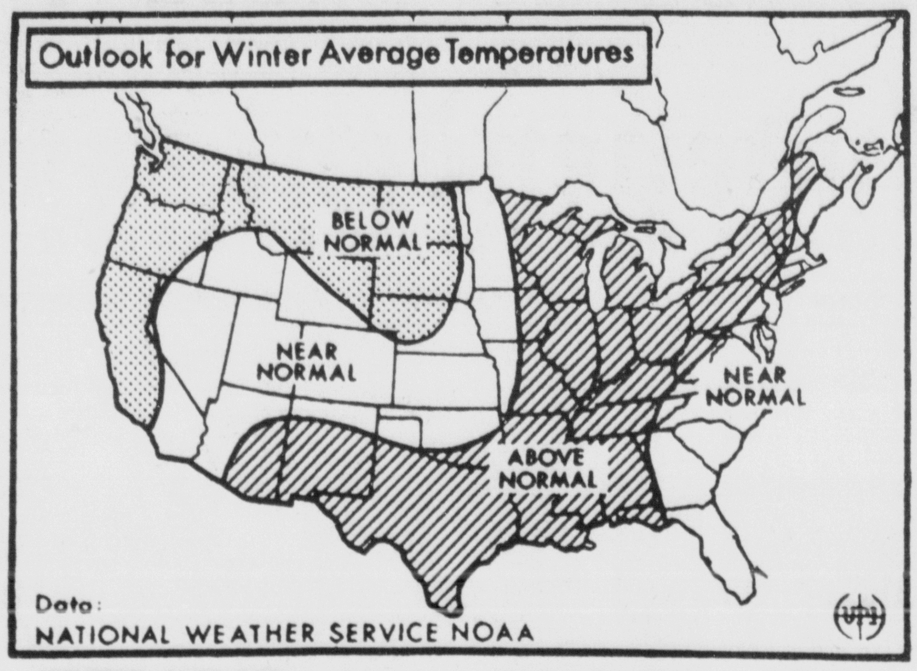
Gov. Robert B. Docking of Kansas said as many as 40,000 employes in the aircraft industry and related concerns in his state could be laid off if fuel allocations cut the supply for aviation by 40 per cent, as has been suggested.

The National Safety Council said the proposed cut in gasoline supplies and highway speeds for motorists could save as many as 14,000 lives.

Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., the vice president-designate, told a meeeting of the American Life Insurance Association in Washington that "we will lick the energy crisis and our country will continue to grow and prosper."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., however, said President Nixon has not proposed means to solve the problem that match the seriousness of the threat as explained by administration energy experts.

"...they reported that unless voluntary conservation and the mandatory allocation system works, we are going to have rationing," he said.



WINTER OUTLOOK — As a result of the nationwide energy shortage the Commerce Department's National Weather Service has issued a temperature outlook for the coming winter. The far West, northern Rockies and northern Great Plains are estimated to have a 60 per cent chance of suffering a colder than normal winter. The East Coast, central Great Plains and deserts of the Great Basin should be about normal and the Midwest, much of the South and parts of the Northeast figure to have a 60 per cent chance of a milder than normal winter.

Sewers Could Play Key Role In Fuel Shortage

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The dean of the college of engineering at the University of Texas says America's sewers may be one of the country's most valuable sources of fuel.

"The gas has to be cleaned up, and therefore it's more costly," Prof. Ernest Gloyna said. "That's why we haven't used it much in the past. Other fuels are cheaper."

The gas produced by sewage decomposition may contain about 70 per cent methane, 30 per cent carbon dioxide and considerable amounts of nitrogen, hydrogen sulfide, water vapor and other "volatile constituents," Gloyna said.

Gloyna said a city with a 40,000 population might produce enough sewer waste for between 300 and 400 gallons of gasoline daily.

The energy produced by the gas could provide almost two-thirds of the fuel needed to run the average sewer plant, he said, including the power needed to refine the sewer gas. Gloyna said this source of energy has been ignored in this nation, but Europeans had explored it.

"We used to run into German tanks and armored vehicles that used sewer gas for their fuel during the war," he said.

The Water Quality Board approved a grant of $5,000 to Gloyna's engineering students so they could study the feasibility of developing sewer gas into fuel.

Present Aid Will Be Continued

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Reagan administration served notice today it intends to continue making aid payments to blind, elderly and aged Californians at current levels unless directed otherwise by a court.

Meantime, administration officials, acting in the absence of Gov. Ronald Reagan, weighed the merits of calling a special session of the Legislature next week to resolve the state's latest multimillion dollar welfare issue.

State officials asked the 3rd District Court of Appeal yesterday to rehear a case in which it declared invalid Reagan's plan to transfer administration of adult welfare programs to the federal government without legislative approval.

In its petition, the administration said it plans to implement a system tomorrow to continue aid payments to 500,000 elderly, blind and disabled recipients at current grant levels "unless word is received from the court that no action, or other action, should be taken."

The court last week, in addition to invalidating Reagan's plan, appeared to mandate grant increases far in excess of those sought either by Reagan or by Democrats in the Legislature.

Health and Welfare Secretary Earl Brian asked for a "minor modification" of the court's ruling which he said would add only $30 million a year to state welfare costs or as much as $125 million.

The $30 million additional cost, which the administration favors, would retain grants to recipients at an average $212 a month while the $125 million option would increase average grants to $219 a month he said.

At a news conference, Brian said the state is ready to implement a system so that on Jan. 1 recipients would receive two separate aid checks —one from the federal government for $130 and another from the state to supplement the federal sum.

Brian sought to assure the California recipients that they will receive their benefits uninterrupted. "One way or another, those checks are going to go out Jan. 1," he said.

Brian said administrative regulations implementing the $30 million plan are ready to be filed on Friday. A second contingency set also is prepared if the court rehears the case and agrees to the $125 million option.

Attorneys for welfare rights organizations estimated that additional state and local costs of welfare could increase to $324 million under the court's ruling, $204 million of which would be administrative costs that otherwise would have been paid by the federal government.

On Jan. 1, the federal government will take over the administration of public aid for blind, disabled and elderly recipients and guarantee them a flat grant of $130 a month. States can contract with the federal government to do so but must adopt a system of supplemental state aid so that recipients won't suffer a financial loss.

The Senate in September defeated a Reagan-opposed bill by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, that would have given Reagan the legal authority to make the transfer of welfare administration to Washington.

But Reagan opposed the measure on grounds it provided larger grants than he sought. Brian said yesterday the cost of the Burton plan would have been an additional $130 million.

County welfare departments, in the meantime, have begun shutting down their adult aid programs in anticipation that they were yielding the task to the federal government.

Crime Link Is Suggested To Small Business Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The possibility of criminal involvement in millions of dollars of loans approved by the Richmond, Va., office of the Small Business Administration (SBA) has been raised before a congressional committee.

Russell Hamilton, former director of the Philadelphia regional office of SBA, testified yesterday that one employe in the Richmond office is afraid to testify "for fear of his life," while the office's financial director kept a diary and secured a gun to guard against organized crime.

The financial director, Kenneth Bowe, was quoted by Hamilton as saying he so feared organized crime influence in Richmond lending activities that he bought a gun and kept a diary of office happenings for "insurance."

"If anything happened to him, it (the diary) was to go to the Washington Post," Hamilton said.

Contacted in Richmond, Bowe denied any knowledge of organized crime influence and said he used the 22-caliber target pistol he obtained four months ago "to shoot targets."

He described the diary as "notes," saying: "When I heard something I'd jot it down ... Things are getting blown out of proportion ... Most of what I know now, I read in the newspaper."

RUSSELL HAMILTON
Committee witness

Hamilton said the diary is now in a safe in the office of the SBA's chief legal counsel, Greg Austin, but Bowe said he made no copies of his notes and still has them.

In other testimony yesterday, Hamilton said SBA Administrator Thomas Kleppe was "committed" early in his tenure to retain Thomas Regan as the head of the Richmond office despite reports of serious problems with loans approved by the agency and the recommendations of other key SBA officials to fire Regan.

Hamilton, who supervised the Richmond office until Nov. 15, said he told all to the congressional investigators before going to the SBA with his information because he wasn't sure he could trust any of his SBA superiors. After the congressional investigation began, Hamilton said he presented identical information to a top SBA official "in confidence."

But that information was leaked to Kleppe, Hamilton said, and what followed was a "CYA—Cover your you-know-what" in Richmond. He testified that because the confidential memo was leaked to Kleppe, some practices of the SBA were changed in an effort to cover up or minimize the charges.

Breakdown In Mideast Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian and Israeli military talks collapsed today at a meeting marked by the nearby sound of mortar and machine-gun fire. Official Egyptian sources said the breakdown could seriously undermine the prospects of reaching a permanent Middle East peace and could spark another war.

An official Egyptian government spokesman said Egypt will seek U.S. and Soviet intervention to change Israel's "intransigent" position in the military disengagement talks at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road.

"The intransigent position of Israel raises serious doubts as to its sincerity, which necessitates consultations with the superpowers and efforts to make Israel abide by these documents," he said.

The talks broke down at the 10th meeting between the chief negotiators, Maj. Gen. Mohammed Gamassy of Egypt and Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv of Israel.

As if to underscore the danger of the breakdown, a shooting incident occurred a few hundred yards away from the UN tent where the talks took place. It was the latest in a series of incidents that have punctured the 35-day-old ceasefire.

For about 30 minutes before the meeting, mortars and machine guns could be heard from both sides of the front lines in the area of a ridge flanking the Cairo-Suez road about a mile south of the UN checkpoint.

Liaison officers Col. Youssef Mikki from Egypt and Capt. Naftali Shimrat of Israel, accompanied a UNEF patrol flying the United Nations flag to the area of the shooting to investigate. But they were pinned down by crossfire and were forced to withdraw to the UNEF checkpoint on the highway.

Official Egyptian sources said the chances of another conflict had greatly increased following the breakdown, which came as the United States was reported pressing Israel to reach a quick agreement on a troops pullback.

The Israeli National Radio denied reports of U.S. pressure, saying, "There is no truth to reports that the United States has put pressure on Israel to be more flexible to Egyptian demands that it retreat to the Oct. 22 lines."

Shortly before deadlock in the talks gave way to collapse, President Anwar Sadat told newsmen in Cairo that Egypt would attend the Geneva talks, but that progress there obviously depended on the good faith shown by the Israelis at the Kilometer 101 talks. However, a spokesman said later Egypt would attend despite the breakdown.

Egyptian officials said it appeared to be deliberate Israeli policy to scuttle the military talks and turn over the disengagement problem to the peace conference in December.

"The situation now is that unless these talks are quickly resumed, there are grave dangers of another war," one official said.

strictions among them) uniformly applicable throughout a region unless there is no satisfactory alternative way of providing for attainment and maintenance of a national standard throughout such region."

The professor, long critical of district measurements of air pollution, said this langugage clearly left power to the district and state to issue a plan that accounted for differences in air pollution levels throughout the region. Marin, he noted, has far cleaner air and sends less pollution to other areas than much of the rest of the region.

The EPA had no choice but to impose a single uniform restriction on the entire Bay Area, Mage said, because it had neither the manpower nor the data to work out special regulations for areas such as Marin.

The federal agency instead used the district's highest single reading of oxidant during 1971 and 1972 as its basis for the entire package of regulations. The peak reading was .36 of a part per million recorded on Sept. 13, 1971, at San Leandro.

The peak reading that day in Marin was .18, but much of the oxidant was blown into the county from the east Bay by a prevailing southeast wind that day, he said.

The federal maximum for oxidant is .08.

Mage urged Marin citizens to lean on the county's two representatives to the smog district board to see that the staff gets cracking on a plan that accounts for different pollution levels around the region. The two are Sausalito City Councilman Stephen A. Fraser and Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

He said the district has had two and a half years to come up with such a plan, but has "dropped the ball." He noted the EPA issued its regulation only after the district and state failed to do so themselves.

Mage argued that Fraser and Arrigoni "have the power to serve their community, but if they're going to do their job they're going to have to become knowledgable about their job."

Unless the board of directors pushes hard on the staff, Mage cautioned, the staff will continue to "choose the most administratively convenient method — uniform restriction. It's the district's job," he insisted, "to implement the regulations in the best way possible for the most people.

"A small change in the regulations can save the people millions of dollars," according to Mage.

which care for the mentally ill, may have to shut down. The state has not increased the rate of payments for the mentally ill patients, although the cost of operating the facilities continues to rise.

In addition, Segal said, Ross Psychiatric Hospital, which also has been caring for some patients whose bills were paid through state funds, has been sold and no longer will be eligible for state reimbursement. That facility will only be available to private patients, Segal said.

The result is, he said, that the beds at Marin General Hospital for the mentally ill are full and people are being sent to state hospitals who should remain in the community. In turn, the state sends those back who are not "gravely disabled."

The board was told that while some patients are being housed in more expensive facilities than they need, such as at Marin General, others are not receiving the care they need.

Segal said board members, like others in the mental health field in California, had no ready answers for the situation which he said exists statewide under the present administration.

No Gasoline Rationing At Present

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon does not plan to order gasoline rationing "at this time" and is confident less drastic steps will be sufficient to deal with the energy crisis, the White House said today.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon would meet for the first time Friday with his Cabinet-level Energy Emergency Action Group, but added there was "nothing specific on the agenda" and the meeting should not be taken to mean gas rationing was imminent.

The White House comments came amid reports that the energy group was considering a gasoline rationing system that would allow drivers to buy more than their allotted maximum at the price of a stiff additional tax.

"The President still holds the view ... that gas rationing is something that, although we have to have contingency plans for it, is something that we really do not contemplate at this time," Ziegler said.

Ziegler, without saying specifically what was in mind to supplement the original energy actions Nixon announced Sunday, said he did not foresee any additional gasoline tax to discourage sales.

"We feel there are steps we could take to deal with the energy crisis without moving to gas rationing," he said. He said Nixon wanted to "take a personal hand" in dealing with the matter.

On Capitol Hill:

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called on Nixon to impose gasoline rationing and promised to fight any effort to increase the gas tax.

The House Commerce Committee began preparing drafting its final version of emergency fuels bill —which Nixon will use for most of his major energy conservation moves — with nearly 100 amendments to be acted on.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, contended that about 11 million barrels of home heating fuel were stored on the East Coast last winter while residents of the upper plains states suffered severe shortages.

Prof. Fred C. Allvine, who has been researching the petroleum industry since 1968 at the Georgia Institute of Technology, told a Senate subcommittee the gas shortage was "largely avoidable" and stemmed from restricted refinery production during much of 1972 and the first five months of 1973.

The Washington Star-News today quoted White House sources as saying Nixon was reacting favorably to the rationing-tax plan formulated by the Interior Department.

No Charge Due In Shooting

Barbara Powers — who shot to death last Saturday the woman who had just killed her husband, James Powers — will not be charged with any crime, the Sonoma County District Attorney announced today.

Dist. Atty. John W. Hawkes said Mrs. Powers was justified in killing Olga Alexis Liubinsky, 48, of San Francisco.

Wielding a revolver, Mrs. Liubinsky invaded the Powers' Petaluma home, held a gun to the temple of the couple's 8-year-old son and threatened to kill him unless Powers emerged from hiding. When the 38-year-old Powers left the room in which he had locked himself, Mrs. Liubinsky shot him through the heart.

The 35-year-old Mrs. Powers meanwhile had got a revolver kept in the house and with it fatally wounded Mrs. Liubinsky.

INDICT

000 in cash given him by the President's personal attorney, Herbert W. Kalmbach, he was said to have hired a network of undercover agents who worked in more than a half dozen states to disrupt campaigns of Democratic presidential hopefuls.

A United Air Lines spokesman had no immediate comment on Chapin's indictment. But Edward E. Carlson, UAL president, said earlier Chapin would keep his job unless convicted of a crime.

"If criminal charges are placed against him and he is found guilty, we would then look at Chapin in the same way as another employe in the same predicament," Carlson said.

On Oct. 15, 1972, a California Attorney Lawrence Young, said in a sworn statement that Segretti had told him, "Dwight Chapin was a person I reported to in Washington."

Three days later, Segretti was linked to a number of telephone calls made in the spring of 1972 —prior to the Watergate break-in —to the White House and to Chapin's home.

The President's appointments secretary was said to have been given the code name "Chapman," and Segretti was known as "Chapman's friend" by insiders in the campaign organization.

United announced last Jan. 30 that Chapin would join the firm as director of market planning, amid published reports that he was being forced out of the White House because of his relationship with Segretti. The White House denied those reports.

In testimony before the Watergate committee last July, Kalmbach acknowledged he had been ordered by Chapin to pay Segretti's salary for the "dirty tricks" campaign. Kalmbach described Chapin as one of the "senior deputies" of H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former chief lieutenant.

Kalmbach said Chapin was "standing, clearly standing, in the shoes of Haldeman" and issuing directives on Haldeman's behalf that Kalmbach obeyed.

Four Candidates To Attend Coffee

A coffee for four candidates in the Corte Madera Town Council special election scheduled for tomorrow night has been changed to a different location because of illness in the family who were to host the affair.

The coffee, at which Larry P. Weingarth, Jana Haehl, Joel Shawn and Philip O. Sasso will speak, is now set for 8 p.m. at the Julian Barlow residence, 5 Enterprise Drive, Corte Madera.

OBITUARIES

Leslie Foster Dies At 70

Funeral for Leslie Marshall Foster, 40-year resident of Marin County, will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Holy Innocents Episcopal Parish in Corte Madera.

Foster, 70, died Tuesday at a local hospital after a short illness.

A native of Victoria, B.C., he emigrated to the Bay Area in 1928 and later became a U.S. citizen. He was a member of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and past president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in San Anselmo.

Foster was a freight agent for 50 years and worked before his retirement for the U.S. Government in San Francisco.

He resided at 34 Old Landing Road in the Paradise Drive area of the Tiburon Peninsula.

Survivors include his wife, Victoria Mabel; a daughter, Mrs. Edward T. Hollingshead of Sacramento; a son, Marshall Foster of Tiburon; a sister, Mrs. James Mitchell of Vancouver, B.C., and eight grandchildren.

Burial will be private.

Memorial gifts may be made to the donor's favorite charity.

RALPH WESEMAN

Funeral for Dr. Ralph J. Weseman, pioneer Novato doctor who died yesterday, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato.

Burial will be in Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

ARTHUR RUPERT

Arthur J. Rupert Sr., former resident of San Geronimo, died yesterday in a Santa Rosa hospital after a short illness. He was 57.

He was born and reared in Minnesota and had lived in San Geronimo for 30 years prior to moving to Santa Rosa on the death of his wife, Norma J. Rupert, last March. He had worked as a carpenter for various contractors in Marin County.

He is survived by a son, John Rupert Jr. of Petaluma; four daughters, Connie Rupert of Healdsburg, Susie Jones of Louisville, Ky., Kathy Owens and Patricia Lagomarsino, both of Santa Rosa; a sister, Alice Tubbs of Waterville, Minn., and 13 grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

HELEN L. DROST

A Mass of the Resurrection for Helen L. Drost, 65, of 84 Wellington Avenue, Ross, will be offered at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Saint Agnes Roman Catholic Church, Masonic and Page Streets, San Francisco.

Mrs. Drost died Tuesday afternoon at a local hospital. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

JOHN COWLES

Graveside service for John D. Cowles, 77, a 25-year resident of Mill Valley, will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Cowles, a retired photographer and artist, was found dead at his home at 20 Cascade Way last Saturday. According to the coroner's office he had been dead several days. A native of Illinois, Cowles had lived in California for 50 years. He worked for many years for several San Francisco firms. He left no immediate family.

CARRIE CONNELL

Private funeral for Carrie L. Connell of Sonoma, a former Marin resident, will be tomorrow in Sonoma.

Mrs. Connell died Monday in a Sonoma hospital after a brief illness. She was a native of California and lived in San Rafael for about 30 years before moving to Sonoma 12 years ago, according to relatives.

She was employed as a seamstress at Langley-Porter Clinic in San Francisco for 40 years and was a member of the Neighbors of Woodcraft, Circle No. 663 of San Rafael.

Mrs. Connell is survived by a daughter, Betty L. Connell of Eldridge, Sonoma County.

Young Artists' Water Solutions

Marin students took up pens, crayons and paints recently to create the perfect water conservation poster in a contest sponsored by the Marin Municipal Water District.

Youngsters from kindergarten through eighth grade responded with over 1,000 entries, each expressing the artist's idea of why or how water must be saved. Forty-one cash prizes were awarded.

Kelly Madden, a fourth grader at Lynwood School in Novato, combined three posters in one to capture one of three $25 grand prizes in the competition.

Kelly demonstrated (left) one of the little habits which can waste gallons of water every day and warned youngsters to turn off the tap before tackling their teeth.

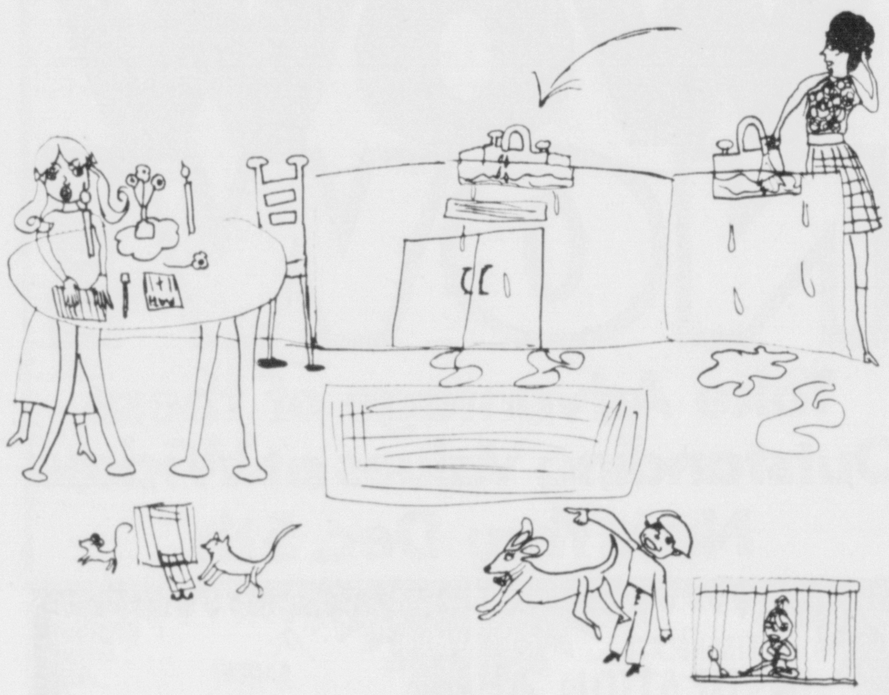
Kelly also showed (below) how easy it is for people to forget about dripping faucets when they are busy with other things, like writing letters or playing with dogs.

Other grand prize winners were Holly Temple, a kindergartner at Bernard Hoffman School in San Rafael and Newell Snyder, a seventh grader at White Hill School in Fairfax.



Eyewitnesses Claim Slaughters In Chile

MOSCOW (UPI) — Chilean soldiers have beaten, burned, sexually mutilated and decapitated political prisoners since the overthrow of President Salvador Allende, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said today.

Vadim Listov, the newspaper's correspondent in Lima, Peru, said eyewitnesses had told him of the tortures and killings.

The witnesses, he said, "give a terrible picture of how butchers wearing the uniforms of army officers are methodically killing the finest sons and daughters of the Chilean people."

Listov said prisoners were made to run the gauntlet and lie at gunpoint face down on a stone floor for hours without moving.

"Soldiers sent a spray of water under high pressure into their noses or mouths, suspended them by their hands and beat them, burned them with fire," he said.

Ford Moves Step Closer To The Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald R. Ford moved to the threshold of becoming the nation's 40th vice president today when the House Judiciary Committee approved his nomination. Final confirmation is scheduled next week.

The committee vote was 29-to-8.

The Senate approved Ford, 92 to 3, Tuesday and a similarly overwhelming House vote has been forecast by Ford's supporters—and critics—by next Thursday. He hopes to be sworn into office immediately afterward.

This is the first time that a vice president has been subjected to congressional confirmation—under a constitutional amendment that was one of the outgrowths of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy—and there is no precedent for a swearing-in.

Ford plans to confer with House and Senate leaders shortly on the manner of his oath-taking, but the present House Republican leader was said to prefer a ceremony within minutes after final confirmation—at a joint congressional session.

Grant Is Winner In Farm Bureau President Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Allan Grant, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation the past 10 years, has won reelection to another two-year term as head of the state's largest farm organization.

Delegates to the group's 55th annual convention Wednesday chose Grant over 16-year vice president Fred Heringer of Gridley. Results of the balloting among the bureau's 150 delegates was not made public.

Grant, a Visalia rancher and chairman of the state Board of Food and Agriculture, was nominated from the floor just before the election.

School Tax Rates Down, Says Bagley

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The tax rate of the average California school district is down 10.3 per cent from last fiscal year because of 1972 tax legislation, Assemblyman William T. Bagley reported today.

The average cut in Marin was 3.8 per cent.

The San Rafael Republican said the cut amounted to an average saving on the property tax rate of nearly 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The average went from $2.6210 to $2.3520 this year, according to the first statewide survey of the bill's impact on school tax rates, he said.

The 500 districts surveyed serve more than 95 per cent of the state's public school student population, he said.

Bagley was a principal author of the comprehensive tax bill in 1972, SB 90. The result, he said in a speech before the California School Boards Association board of delegates at the St. Francis Hotel, was "the trend of constantly increasing school taxes has been broken before it broke the backs of California's homeowners."

The average rate in Marin went from $2.274 last year to $2.188 this year, Bagley said.

LONDON (AP) — Ex-King Constantine and his wife plan to move into a home about 20 miles from London, the Daily Express said today.

Bork Warns Federal Agencies About Withholding Information

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork today warned federal agencies not to withhold any information from the public without first consulting his Freedom of Information Committee.

Otherwise, Bork said, the Justice Department will refuse to defend those government agencies if they are sued in court for violating the 1966 Freedom of Information Act.

The act declares the public has a right to all information in the executive branch with specific exemptions for matters involving national security, personal privacy, criminal investigations or inside advisories that are not made final.

Bork was to meet today with 500 officials from 75 federal agencies on ways to improve compliance with the act—termed by some an "administrative nightmare." His remarks were made public in advance.

Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., chairman of the House government information subcommittee warned that Congress may pass a stricter act if the agencies do not find a way to fill public information requests faster and head off more lawsuits.

Recent increases in the number of lawsuits is "a clear statement that despite the title of the act, information is not freely available and must be fought for, often at a high cost in dollars and time," Moorhead said.

He said his subcommittee is considering an amendment which would impose civil penalties such as personal fines against federal officials who fail to comply with the act.

Marin YWCA To Sponsor Day Camps

The Marin Young Women's Christian Association will sponsor a day camp Jan. 2 through Jan. 5 for boys and girls ages 7 through 11.

The camp will be at the YWCA, 1618 Mission Avenue, San Rafael. Activities, scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., will include crafts, music, drama, games and trips.

Order To Reduce Lead In Gasoline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing an increasing danger of lead poisoning in children, the Environmental Protection Agency has ordered the oil industry to reduce the amount of lead in gasoline by 60 to 65 per cent by the end of the decade.

The agency estimated the changeover would cost the industry $75 million in refinery improvements in 1975 when the phase-in reduction begins. But it said the change is needed to protect both the public health and the anti-pollution devices on cars which will not tolerate leaded gas.

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock last night was presented with the 1973 National B'nai B'rith Humanitarian Award at a $100-a-plate dinner.

Bolinas Board Hikes The Pay Of Members, Schell Resigns

Directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District last night elected a new board chairman, changed the method of paying fees to themselves and heard one board member announce his resignation.

In developments stemming from a closed session last Saturday, the board unanimously elected Marguerite Harris chairman for one year and hiked from the $35 a meeting to $175 a month maximum the pay a director can claim and ordered that a statement accompany each claim.

Immediately after the votes, director Orville Schell said he will quit the board Jan. 1 because he needs to earn money and give time to other pursuits.

Outgoing Chairman William E. Niman, described the closed session as "a very satisfactory meeting, called to air complaints directors had about each other," and said directors had agreed on the two actions taken last night.

Director Lewis P. MacAdams Jr., absent from last night's session, had concurred in the decisions, Niman indicated.

The board discussed a lengthy letter from Stephen A. Warkentin charging that the 1972 environmental impact report on the proposed sewage system, among other omissions, failed to consider the possibility of earthquakes which could hit the downtown area with a "wall of water" from hilltop sewage ponds.

Directors forwarded the letter for comment to Kirker, Chapman and Associates, design engineers who authored the 1972 report.

Warkentin also gave the district a bicycle for use by district personnel engaged in reading water meters.

Flournoy To Talk At Sonoma State

State Controller Houston Flournoy, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, will speak Wednesday at noon in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College.

His appearance is the first in a series for gubernatorial candidates sponsored by the college alumni association.

Flournoy was first elected controller in 1966 and won reelection in 1970 with a record-setting plurality of 1.4 million votes. He had previously served three terms in the state Assembly representing a Los Angeles district.

Flournoy recieved his bachelor's degree in government from Cornell University and his master's and doctorate degrees from Princeton University.

Last Lighthouse Keeper Has Retired

All of West Germany's 550 light buoys, 350 lighthouses, 36 fog horns and 10 radio becaons now are controlled by computer.

Dixie Board Sets Desk, Chair Sales

The Dixie School District board last night decided to sell 100 student desks and chairs deemed surplus due to declining enrollment.

"We once had 4,900 kids in 1968, but now we have only 3,995," said Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

The result, he said, is a surplus of about 600 small desks and chairs no longer in use.

The board last night said the district will sell 50 single pupil desks and 50 small chairs for prices ranging from $1 to $4.

Campbell said interested parents may contact Joseph Goff, assistant superintendent, at the district office.

The district board also approved updated job descriptions of Campbell's post, and those of two assistants. The job descriptions, provided by Campbell, are more detailed than previous descriptions so that the board can better assess performance, he said.

The board also accepted the resignation of part-time teacher Judy Zaider, and set a closed session for 8 p.m. Dec. 6 to assess Campbell's performance.

The next regular meeting of the board is 8 p.m. Dec. 12.

What you will find here is the very finest selection of Wines and Spirits in all of Northern California. The Bourbon Shops have been serving Marin County for Fourteen years and our newest store is a reflection of our experience and our enthusiasm. If you were here fourteen years ago, you will notice that we have changed some. While it is true that we carry over thirty brands of Bourbon, it is also true that we offer a selection of over 1250 bottles of American and Imported wines. This is not, however, a mere numbers game. We are specialists in our business and you will find our staff to be both knowledgeable and helpful. We can tell you the difference between blended and unblended scotch. We will be happy to explain the difference between V.S. and V.S.O.P. Cognac and if you would like to know how to make a Margarita, just ask. When it comes to wine, we promise a staff with the best palates this side of the Medoc. What kind of wine should you serve with Chicken Curry..Try a Mayacamas Zinfandel Rose or an Alsace Willm Gewurztraminer. Your fine meals deserve complimentary wines and we are here to assist you in your selection.

We offer a 10 percent discount on cases of wine or spirits and always charge the lowest legal prices. Check around and see how many other stores jack up the price on a bottle of Louis Martini Cabernet Sauvignon. At the Bourbon Shops of Marin, it will cost you $3.25. We offer glassware on loan for your special occasions and furnish ice cubes at no charge.

And not only that - we have over 65 brands of beer (Coors of course and Ben Truman Pale Ale too) and Hershey Bars (with almonds) and logs for the fireplace and '47 Lafite-Rothschild and Dr. Pepper in the bottle and Macanudo Cigars and Chilled Magnums of Dom Perignon and Gallo Hearty Burgundy too. We are serious about the WINE AND SPIRITS business, but not snobbish. Come around and see us. We're in the neighborhood.

LA VIEILLE FERME

Cotes du Rhone $2.99

This bottle destroys Wine Myth 287. If you think you will have to take out a second mortgage on your house to buy a good bottle of French wine, check again. La Vieille Ferme is here and at 2.99 a bottle, it is one of the very best red wine values in the United States. Unlike many other Cotes du Rhones, La Vieille Ferme uses a high ratio of Petit Syrah, rather than the more common Grenache of the area. Craig Clairborne, long time food and beverage editor of the New York Times drinks La Vieille Ferme as his daily wine. A stunning example of good wine at a decent price.

Court Continues Order To Halt Bodega Building

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The State Court of Appeals yesterday continued its recent order to halt all construction at the controversial 1,600-unit Bodega Harbor housing development at Bodega Bay.

The court said building cannot proceed until the court issues a decision in the case in which the state seeks to have a months-long battle removed from the jurisdiction of the Sonoma County Superior Court.

No new date for a hearing was set yesterday.

The North Coast Region Conservation Commission last spring rejected the plans of the developer, Transcentury Corp., on environmental grounds and the company has waged a court fight to overturn the decision.

The state court called for a temporary halt to construction last month and also asked the state to show what environmental harm would be caused by the subdivision.

PG&E Customers Heed Energy Pleas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas & Electric Co., reports that its customers were heeding pleas to conserve energy.

"The trend appears to be building, and we believe that the energy savings will continue," Vice President Joseph Y. De Young said yesterday.

Another Seeks Lunding's Job

A retired electrical contractor has joined seven other applicants seeking appointment to the San Rafael Planning Commission seat vacated last week when the city council fired Jorgen V. Lunding.

The new applicant is Clifford Elbing, 66, of 17 Broad View Court, according to the city administration.

Deadline for filing applications was 4 p.m. today.

The city council will fill the seat at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

Sausalito Police Nab Two Hollywood Men

Two Hollywood men were arrested yesterday in Sausalito on a variety of charges, including suspicion of possessing credit cards stolen in an armed robbery Tuesday at a Hollywood bar.

Gerald L. Westbrock, 26, was being held in county jail in lieu of $75,000 bail and Dennis Eugene Morgan, 32, was being held in lieu of $50,000 bail. Both were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Westbrock was booked for investigation of possessing a stolen credit card, forgery and possessing concealed firearms. Morgan was booked on suspicion of possessing stolen credit cards and receiving stolen property.

Police were called to the Nunn Bush shoe store at 660 Bridgeway at 1:42 p.m. Westbrock was taken into custody after the store manager reported that he tried to buy two pairs of shoes with a stolen credit card, officers said.

Earlier yesterday, Westbrock successfully used the card to charge clothing at Mom's Apple Grave Boutique on Bridgeway and Ties Unlimited on Princess Street, according to police.

A search of his station wagon turned up three loaded pistols in an attache case in the rear of the car, officers reported.

Detectives said they staked out the car and arrested Morgan several hours later when he returned to the station wagon. They said Morgan also had stolen credit cards.

Skiing In Sierra Is Said Good

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Good skiing was reported at Sierra Nevada ski operations today, with more snow predicted by the weekend.

The weatherman says the snow level will lower to 4,000 feet north and 7,000 feet south Friday. Motorists should carry chains.

Operations at selected ski areas, as reported by the California State Automobile Association at 10 a.m.:

Highway 88: Kirkwood Meadows, 4-5 feet, very good conditions, four lifts.

Highway 4: Bear Valley, 4 feet, good conditions, three chairs.

Highway 108: Dodge Ridge, 2-3 feet, good conditions, all facilities operating.

Nevada: Slide Mt. Rose, 3-3 ½ feet, good to very good, four lifts.

Highway 267: North Star, 2-5 feet, good skiing, all lifts operating.

Interstate 80: Sugar Bowl, 4 feet, good conditions, five lifts; Tahoe-Donner, 18 inches, good conditions, all facilities operating; Boreal Ridge, 3-4 feet, good conditions, 2-3 chairs.

Highway 89: Squaw Valley, 2-4 feet, good conditions, 12 chairs and tram; Alpine Meadows, 4-5 feet, good to very good, three chairs, one poma; Papoose, two feet, fair to good, three lifts.

Highway 50: Heavenly Valley, good conditions, nine lifts; Sierra Ski Ranch, 3-5 feet, good conditions, four lifts.

Pioneer 10 Enters Jupiter Field

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) — The Pioneer 10 spacecraft voyaged to the deadly magnetic field of Jupiter today and sped two minutes ahead of schedule towards discovery of the large planet's host of awesome secrets.

The secrets lie at the heart of the mystery of how the solar system, and the Earth, were born. Answers would be applied to everything from producing nuclear energy to controlling Earth weather.

Pioneer is the first spacecraft to fly past Mars towards the solar system's outer planets. Eventually, the vehicle will become the first to escape the solar system and journey silently into the Milky Way galaxy.

Space Agency controllers learned yesterday that Jupiter is heavier than thought—just enough so that its gravity is pulling Pioneer toward a target above Jupiter's cloudtops two minutes faster than calculated at blastoff 22 months ago.

Now 3.2 million miles from Jupiter, the 570-pound Pioneer is returning data of great value to Earth computers from its 11 instruments. Information will include 340 color photographs of Jupiter and 10 of its largest moons.

A brightly hued mass 1,300 times the volume of Earth, Jupiter rotates so fast its day is only 10 hours long. It seems to be composed largely of hydrogen, helium and other gases.

On the way to its target, Pioneer is mapping the structure of Jupiter's magnetic field —a potential death trap for the spacecraft. Radiation one million times that of Earth's Van Allen belt could knock out Pioneer circuitry, and a fleck in the dust belt could smash a large hole in the speeding craft.

Jupiter radiates three times more energy than it receives from the sun and scientists wonder what kind of a dynamo produces it.

All that radiation might result if Jupiter is a new planet condensing or "falling together," said scientists. Perhaps Jupiter is not a planet at all but rather a still-born star, a twin of the sun.

Ceremony Set

OTTAWA (UPI) — Jules Leger, Canada's ambassador to Belgium, will be installed as governor general Jan. 14. The current governor general, Roland Michener, and his wife will leave Ottawa Jan. 9 to live in Toronto although Michener's term will be extended officially to Jan. 14.

Mars Said A Live Planet But None Sure Of Its Atmosphere

PASADENA (UPI) — Mars is a live planet, not dead like the Earth's moon, scientists agreed at the opening of a "definitive symposium" on the Red Planet, but they aren't sure what the Martian atmosphere is like.

About 400 scientists from 10 nations attended the opening yesterday of the International Colloquium on Mars at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. They gathered to exchange opinions and discuss theories developed with the wealth of information about Mars returned by America's unmanned Mariner space probes.

"Indications are surely that Mars is presently active," said geologist Michael Carr, of the U.S. Geodetic Survey, discussing the many volcanoes shown in Mariner photos.

The pictures show Mars is a living planet, he said, but not what stage the planet is in.

He was asked if the volcanoes were active and he replied, "One can't answer that."

He said indications were that in an area called Tharsis, volcanoes were "only about ten million years old—relatively young geologically."

Other volcanoes such as Nix Olympica, the largest on Mars, appear to be ancient, he said.

Ridges seen on the Martian surface may be due to erosion from water, another scientist suggested.

Donald Hunten of the Kitts Peak Laboratory said Mars loses much hydrogen and oxygen, elements of water, partly from evaporation. Water may be held under the polar ice cap on the planet, he said.

Several opinions were expressed at the opening session on the main gases composing the Martian atmosphere. Tobias Owen of the State University of New York favored ozone and oxygen. George Pimentel of UC Berkeley thought carbon oxides predominate.

Richard Goody of Harvard cautioned against any firm conclusions at this time and said, "The question is exceedingly complex."

Owen pointed out more should be known about the atmosphere after a new American space probe Viking, in 1975.

Next year, the Russians may turn up such information since they plan two Martian missions.

The spacecraft involved will be equipped with spectrometers which by measuring light rays can determine the chemical content of the atmosphere.

Nixon Ready To Release Papers To Clear Himself

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will start blitzing members of Congress and governors tomorrow with documents he hopes will "clear up once and for all" allegations against him.

Nixon has ended a series of nine meetings in which he discussed Watergate and other subjects privately with 218 congressmen and 81 senators of both parties.

The President has had a team of lawyers and White House staffers busy compiling detailed reports on subjects ranging from his personal finances and income tax payments to allegations that he used improper influence to solicit political contributions for his re-election campaign.

Aides said that, despite the strain of keeping up with the aftermath of the Middle East war and the oil shortage along with his preoccupation with Watergate, his morale "is surprisingly high."

Although he is feeling tension and fatigue, his doctors say there is "no fundamental difference in his physical condition." He is not taking any medication, they said.

Among the allegations he plans to rebut:

That Nixon approved an increase in the milk subsidy in repayment to the industry for $2 million in contributions to his reelection campaign.

That he used improper influence to insure that International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) would be able to retain the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. against Justice Department anti-trust charges, in return for a $400,000 contribution to convene the Republican National Convention in San Diego.

PAYMENT ON PAVILION

Expo '74 Gen. Mgr. Petr Spurney (left) yesterday received seven beaver pelts from Gary Lauk as a modest down payment for British Columbia's exhibit at the international fair in Spokane, Wash. Lauk, minister of industrial trade and commerce for British Columbia, said the province's exhibit would cost an estimated $600,000 and will emphasize living in harmony with his environment.

Strawberry Plan To Be Presented

The newly prepared Strawberry Community Plan will be presented tonight to the Marin County Planning Commission at the Strawberry Recreation Center at 8 p.m.

The plan, drawn up by the county planning department with aid of local residents, has been accepted already by the Strawberry Area Community Council. Also tonight, the Ring Mountain Advisory Committee, a citizen planning group, will give the commission its ideas on what the future land uses should be on Ring Mountain, the long ridge separating the Tiburon Peninsula from the rest of the county.

Barriers Lifted In Recreation Program

The City of Novato last night abolished sexual discrimination in its recreation program, opening every activity to both men and women, boys and girls.

"With the abolishing of all sex discrimination, I suppose men can take belly dancing if they want," recreation director Larry Dito commented today.

He reported last night to the city's parks and recreation commission, which swept away all such restrictions, that other cities throughout the nation had taken similar action when girls complained of being excluded from playing Little League baseball.

He reported receiving requests by many girls to take part in such hitherto all-male activities as flag football, Peewee League and other sports.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

LOT — Recommended that the city accept for a minipark, an undevelopable lot at the corner of Fairway Drive and Alameda De La Loma offered to the city by Charles D. Kuhn.

FREEWAY — Recommended that the city sell a small parcel of land which it received in the surplus freeway property to Martin and Georgia Beebe whose property is adjacent to the small triangular piece.

TOURNAMENT — Received a request from Garetta Lamore of Sunset Parkway, that the city sponsor a tennis tournament next spring. The commission took the request under advisement.

RULES — Voted to update the rules and regulations governing the commission meetings. These will be done after they are studied. The rules were first formulated in 1964 and have not been changed since.

QUESTIONNAIRE — Briefly reviewed some of the questions to be used on a survey of public opinion on the future of parks and their uses, and recreation programs. It set a special meeting for 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the Novato Community House to work on the questionnaire.

Consumer Affairs Deputy Promoted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Deputy Chief James P. Keating of the state Division of Consumer Affairs has been promoted to the $25,908 post as division chief, Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke announced Tuesday.

Keating, 36, who has served as deputy chief since February 1972.

Tree Plantings Will Be Asked Along Highway

The state Department of Transportation should plant more trees along Highway 101 to absorb noise if the highway is widened in the Mill Valley area, the Alto-Sutton Manor District Association decided last night.

Sara S. Ruffner, publicity chairman, said the association will write to the department asking for the plantings.

She said that the association also decided to mail a circular to residents in January describing the history of Alto-Sutton Manor and asking what activities residents would like the association to sponsor.

Pledge By Tito About Presidency

JAJCE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — President Tito told a group of veteran partisans today he would continue at the helm of Yugoslavia as long as he was able.

The 81-year-old Tito was speaking in this Bosnian hill town at a ceremony commemorating the formation of a provisional government of Yugoslav partisans fighting against German occupation forces on Nov. 29, 1943. One of the partisans who was at the original ceremony proposed today Tito should become president for life.

Tito replied:

"It is very difficult to be a lifelong president. He must be active and it is a question of whether a man of my age can continue to satisfy the people. But I pledge that as long as I am able, I shall continue to lead the country."

Cyclist Reported As Satisfactory

Richard P. Crandall, 20, of 1328 McKenzie Drive, Petaluma, was reported in satisfactory condition today with injuries suffered Tuesday when his motorcycle collided with a truck.

Crandall received back injuries and a broken left ankle in the crash which occurred at 12:15 p.m. at the intersection of Second and E streets in Petaluma.

Scientists See Cancer Vaccines

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is increasing evidence that many forms of human cancer are caused by viruses and hope is growing that vaccines eventually will be developed to prevent some cancers, several scientists said today.

But researchers have not yet come up with conclusive proof linking human cancers with viruses and one scientist, Dr. Howard M. Temin, professor of cancer research at the University of Wisconsin, said he does not believe there is a direct connection between human cancers and viruses.

A specific virus must be found to cause a cancer before an anti-cancer vaccine can be developed. And even then, one researcher attending a national conference sponsored by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute predicted it will be five to 10 years at least before cancer vaccines can be safely used in man.

In another report, Dr. Brian E. Henderson, of the University of Southern California School of Medicine, said his studies have found no evidence supporting earlier reports that human breast cancer may be spread by viruses in mothers' milk.

Dr. Friedrich W. Dienhardt, chairman of the department of microbiology at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago, predicted in a paper prepared for the opening session that actual isolation of the first human cancer causing viruses should not be too far away.

"C-type viruses cause sarcomas (malignant tumors) and leukemias in many and probably all animal species and, as it is unlikely that man differs in this respect, we may expect to find similar agents in man," he said.

Dr. Werner Henle, professor of virology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, said a virus known as Epstein-Barr is a strong contender for the first proven human tumor virus because of its inferred association with Hodgkin's Disease, leukemia and some other malignant diseases.

"There are now a whole slew of human viruses commonly seen by the population under natural conditions that we know have potential cancer properties in experimental systems," said Dr. Fred Rapp, Chairman of the Department of microbiology at the Pennsylvania State University School of Medicine.

"These same viruses are causing cancers under natural conditions in animals. So one has to entertain the strong suspicion that they might be causing cancer under natural conditions in man," he said at a news conference before the start of the three-day meeting.

"I think probably within five years we will have some handle on whether some of these viruses do cause (human) cancer," Rapp said. But he said it may take 10 years or longer before safe cancer vaccines are available.

"Safety testing is going to be a very big headache and it's going to have to be done slowly with a lot of groundwork laid so we don't cause what amounts to a cancer epidemic," he said in an interview.

"You don't want to instill the disease in any child. So the safety precautions are going to be monumental. For that reason, I don't think the vaccine is just around the corner even after we know the virus that is causing any given form of cancer."

Cruise Halted: Fuel Shortage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — P&O, the British ship firm, has canceled a 14-day cruise by the Arcadia from Vancouver, B.C., to Hawaii because of a fuel shortage.

P&O's December allotment of fuel from a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of California was too small to supply both the firm's West Coast vessels, the Arcadia and Oriana.

The Oriana will use the available fuel for a cruise from Vancouver and San Francisco to Australia.

THAT'S THE WAY THE CEMENT TRUCKS

Evaristo C. Vaz (left) walks away, uninjured, from his overturned concrete truck following an accident on northbound Highway 101 in Novato. The 43-year-old Petaluma truck driver told police a truck towing a car on a long cable pulled in front of him yesterday about 9:30 a.m. The cable was so long that the car began to move behind his vehicle, Vaz reported. When he pulled over to avoid a collision, his truck went into a deep ditch. It took two tow trucks three hours to get the heavy concrete truck back on the road, officers said. Japan's Worst Store Fire Leaves 99 Persons Dead

TOKYO (UPI) — Fire that sent panicky Christmas shoppers falling down the stairs "like an avalanche" destroyed an eight-story department store in southern Japan today, roaring through flimsy Yuletide decorations and engulfing hundreds of women attracted by a Christmas sale.

Police in Kumamoto City, on the southern island of Kyushu 550 miles southwest of Tokyo, said they had recovered 99 bodies and that more than 100 other persons were injured in this worst department store fire in Japanese history. The toll was expected to climb.

Ironically, the fire which broke out in a stack of cardboard boxes on the third floor of the Taiyo (Great Ocean) department store came during fire prevention week in Japan. Taiyo had just begun installing an anti-fire system including fire and smoke detectors.

Police and firemen said more than 20 of the victims were charred beyond recognition.

In a disaster seen live on television throughout Japan, helicopters could be seen moving through billowing smoke to pluck dozens of people off the roof. Others were rescued by firemen on huge aerial ladders, and some women with babies strapped to their backs slid to safety by ropes. Others leaped screaming to their death from the upper floors.

Doctors at hospitals said they found most of the victims had died of smoke suffocation but police said they had recovered 30 bodies charred beyond recognition as they searched the rubble that was the upper four floors of the building.

Ichiro Sawada, 42, a city assemblyman who rushed to the scene to help rescue workers, told TV reporters he saw more than 20 persons felled by smoke but that he could only stand by helplessly and watch because the fire prevented his reaching them.

Those who failed to make their escape from the rooftop were later found dead in piles on the seventh and eighth floors.

The fire was believed to have started in a staircase on the third floor where cardboard boxes were stored.

"We quickly used buckets of water to extingush it, but failed because the smoke became so strong that we had to flee from the scene," Minoru Sakai, 61, a sales chief of the floor told reporters.

The fire broke out on the third floor around 1:20 p.m. at height of the shopping rush and quickly spread upward through the halls, staircases and ventilator shafts, trapping those on the upper floors and killing many of them with deadly fumes. It raged until 9 p.m. when firemen using more than 50 pieces of equipment brought it under control.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known but authorities said the blaze was fed by Christmas decorations and merchandise in the store that is normally closed on Thursdays but was open today for the special sale. The fire did not abate until everything in the store was destroyed.

At least 50 persons fled to the roof of the building where they were lifted off by helicopters of Japan's Self Defense Forces while viewers throughout Japan watched the drama on national television networks.

Japanese television reporters said most of the dead were found to have no scars or other signs of bodily injury, indicating that the victims were overcome by smoke.

The Last Drink of 1973.

We promise this will be the very last Smimoff drink suggestion we'll make this year. It's called the Smimoff Holiday Sour.

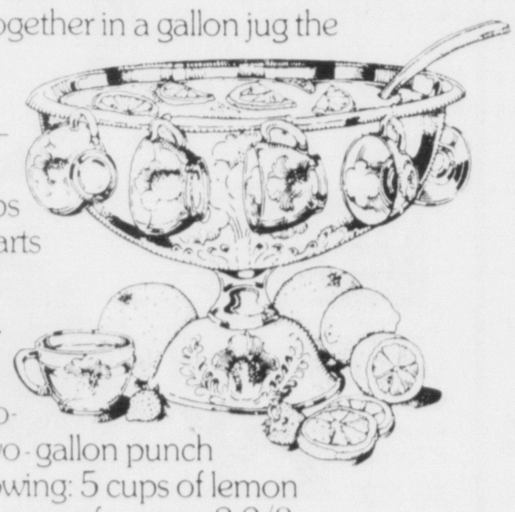
The reason we call it the Holiday Sour is that it can be made a few hours before you have friends over and refrigerated till they arrive. So when they do, you can relax and enjoy the time with them.

Below you'll find recipes for an individual Smimoff Holiday Sour, a quart size, a half-gallon size, a two-gallon punch bowl size and if you're really having a bash, a fifteen-gallon bathtub size.

Whether or not you take our suggestion, we hope you'll have a happy holiday.

The Forty-Drink Size.

Mix together in a gallon jug the following: 20 ounces of lemon juice—7/8 cup of sugar—5 cups water—2 quarts of Smimoff.



The Eighty-Drink Size.

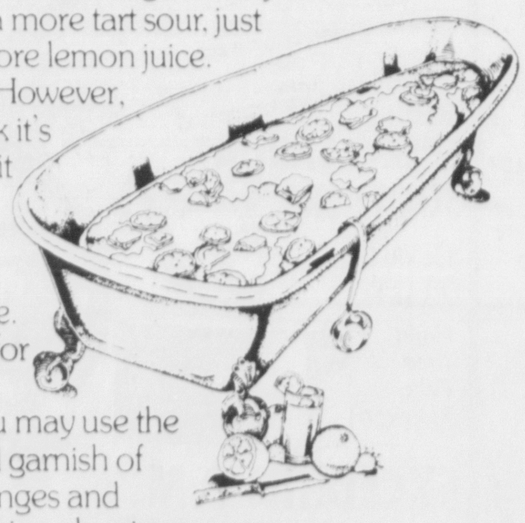
Mix together in a two-gallon punch bowl the following: 5 cups of lemon juice—1-3/4 cups of sugar—2-2/3 quarts of water—4 quarts of Smimoff.

The Six-Hundred-Drink Size.

Mix together in a tub: 9-1/2 quarts of lemon juice—12 cups of sugar—5 gallons of water—28 quarts of Smimoff.

If you want a sweeter sour, just add more sugar. Or if you want a more tart sour, just add more lemon juice.

However, we do think it's wise to serve it in a short glass over a generous quantity of ice.



And for the final touch, you may use the traditional garnish of sliced oranges and maraschino cherries.

The One Drink-Three-Ounce Size.

Mix together in a shaker or empty jar the following: 1/2 ounce of lemon juice—1 teaspoon of sugar—1 ounce of water—1-1/2 ounces of Smimoff.

The Ten-Drink Size.

Mix together in an empty quart juice bottle the following: 5 ounces of lemon juice—3 tablespoons of sugar—10 ounces of water—1 pint or 2 cups of Smimoff.

Smimoff leaves you breathless.*

Millionaires Pack Versailles For A Gala

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — American and European millionaires with checkbooks, furs and jewels sipped champagne until dawn today at the Paris party of the year in an effort to rescue the Chateau of Versailles from termites and a leaky roof.

Versailles, the poor palace of Europe and scene of the gala, needs $60 million to restore its wormy staircases and empty rooms to their former glory.

A French committee headed by the Baroness Guy de Rothschild, one of the luminaries of Paris society, organized a dinner party and history's first Franco-American fashion-musical show in the creaking 17th Century chateau and invited millionaires only.

The chateau was scarcely heated and women in strapless gowns shivered. One laughed: "This gets us used to the oil shortage." There were no telephones, few toilets and cold food.

But they flew in from Palm Beach and Houston, from Park Avenue, London and Hamburg, paying 1,000 francs ($230 dollars) for a blue silk ticket and another $23 for a program, to join French millionaires and aristocrats.

For this one glorious evening the rich and the royal could forget about the oil crisis and the war, inflation and the sick dollar, and enjoy life as did the 17th Century kings of France.

"Here we are in this castle, just like the 17th Century. No heat, no telephones, flickering candles, footmen in powdered wigs, beautiful gowns and jewels. You keep thinking they're getting ready to storm the palace," marveled New Yorker Jacqueline Shapiro, who flew over for the party with New York designer Roy Halston.

The ladies at the bash were a show in themselves. The sables, minks and ermines checked at the cloakroom could have carpeted the chateau ballroom wall-to-wall. The gilded, chandeliered halls were awash with original gowns by the designers of Paris, London, New York and Rome. Easily $2.5 million worth of evening gowns, gems and furs poured from the hired limousines that streamed into the chateau courtyard.

The 720 guests sat on blue velvet seats to watch a three-hour fashion-music show in the blue, pink and gold chateau theater built in 1769 for the wedding of Marie Antoinette.

The French staged a two-hour show, a style parade by Givenchy and other Paris creators and entertainment by top stars from singer Charles Trenet to Russian ballet star Rudolph Nureyev.

Princess Grace of Monaco, the American Grace Kelly, wearing a white Dior gown, sat in the royal box. Below, a French woman and English millionairess Pat Harmsworth discovered they were wearing the same gown.

After a champagne intermission, Zizi Jeanmaire drew lottery numbers from a basket and somebody won a Cardin gown, another guest a Dior fur. Nobody in this crowd squealed.

Then on came the first American fashion show ever staged in France — 35 fast minutes of breezy music and dancing with Liza Minelli singing "Cabaret" and mannequins showing the creations of U.S. designers Bill Blass, Halston, and others.

The audience called "bravo".

For the impoverished palace, the evening netted $260,000.

An Attack On Butz Policies

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Farmers Union president Jay Naman says the Department of Agriculture is shuffling desks around while Texas cotton farmers are facing a fuel shortage that may mean losing some of the harvest at a cost to the American consumer.

"Let me tell you, this administration reminds me of ancient Rome. These guys, like Nero, are fiddling while Rome burns," Naman said, commenting on Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz' plan to streamline some offices of the department.

"This is not a fuel crisis caused by lack of availability of diesel fuel," Naman said. "This is a crisis caused by more administration fiddling."

Date Is Set For Growth Law Trial

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A lawsuit against Petaluma's growth control plan will go to trial Jan. 14 in Federal court in San Francisco.

Judge Lloyd H. Burke set the new trial date Tuesday. A pretrial conference will be held Dec. 7 at 1:30 p.m.

The trial was originally scheduled to begin Nov. 14, but was delayed when Judge Stanley A. Weigel disqualified himself. Weigel said his ownership of land in rural Sonoma County might be construed as a conflict of interest.

The suit, filed by the Construction Industry Association, challenges the constitutionality of Petaluma's growth control plan. The policy — which has received national attention — limits residential development to 500 new living units per year.

Soviet Physicist Would Visit US

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nuclear physicist and dissident leader Andrei D. Sakharov said today he wants to visit the United States for several months beginning in December and has taken the first step toward obtaining a visa to leave.

Sakharov, father of the Soviet hydrogen bomb, has been under fire in the Soviet Union for his activities as leader of an unofficial human rights committee.

He told Western newsmen his situation has become "very tense" and he decided a month ago to accept an invitation to lecture at Princeton University for three to six months.

Session Tonight On Waterfront Zoning

Sausalito city councilmen will consider new zoning for the central waterfront during a special meeting at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Property owners, who objected to previous zoning proposals by the city, are scheduled to present their recommendations for zoning changes in the controversial waterfront area, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

CROSSING GUARD ORIENTATION

California Highway Patrolman Myron MacNeil, flanked by county traffic engineer James Robertson, explains traffic safety and school crossing techniques to a group of crossing guards and alternates who will man posts Friday at the intersections of College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, and Woodland Road and College, Magnolia and Kent avenues in Kentfield. The board of supervisors recently agreed to underwrite an estimated $7,000 tab for guards at the intersections near Adeline E. Kent School, following a four-year struggle by parents for pedestrian safety measures in the area.

Laird Feels Tape Gaps Definitely Hurt Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House counselor Melvin R. Laird said today fresh revelations in the Watergate tapes controversy had definitely hurt President Nixon's campaign to bounce back from the scandal.

But Laird said he saw no majority in the House now to vote for impeachment of Nixon.

"I personally don't believe that there is great support at this time" for a House move to open impeachment proceedings, Laird said. In fact, he felt, there would be "a substantial vote against" impeachment.

Laird, talking with reporters at the White House, said he thought the disclosures of inexplicable gaps in the White House Watergate tapes had damaged Nixon's efforts to put the scandal behind him.

"I can't measure how much they've hurt, but of course they hurt," Laird said.

Laird, Nixon's chief adviser for domestic affairs, also said he thought it would have been better if Nixon had told Republican governors at their Memphis convention about the 18-minute blank portion in the tape.

Buzhardt Says White House Sought To Restore Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt said today the White House delayed in announcing 18 minutes were missing from a Watergate tape partly because it was attempting to see if the conversation could be restored.

Buzhardt, testifying in a U.S. District Court hearing on the tapes, said he thoroughly explored the possibility of restoring the conversation but was told by Howard Rosenbloom, a National Security Agency technical expert, that the chances were "very remote."

"We were always in agreement that it (the 18-minute gap) should be included in the analysis of the tapes and turned over to the court," he said.

He said the White House delayed a week telling the court of the gap in a June 20, 1972, conversation between President Nixon and H.R. Haldeman to give Buzhardt time to "provide such an explanation as I could" for the gap.

Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, appearing at the court for the indictment of former presidential appointments secretary Dwight L. Chapin on charges of giving false statements, said he would like to see the court take custody of more White House tapes dealing with Watergate.

The court already has possession of seven subpoenaed tapes.

Jaworski also said he had not yet received all the Watergate related documents he sought from the White House and was considering asking for more.

"We did get a substantial amount of material," Jaworski said, "but there's some more that needs to be forthcoming."

WILLIAM D. RUCKELSHAUS

Bill On Daylight Savings Time Is Stalled In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, bogged down with other legislation, has delayed action on a bill providing year round Daylight Saving Time, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has added his voice to those critical of the administration's energy proposals.

The Daylight Saving Time measure, which overwhelmingly cleared the House Tuesday, was expected to be brought up in the Senate yesterday. But other legislative business forced postponement of the measure until today. Senate sources expected the bill to be approved before the end of the week.

The White House says passage of the year round daylight time measure—which would advance clocks one hour and thus mean longer hours of daylight in the evening—could result in lower demands for heating and electricity by as much as 3 per cent.

But Humphrey said President Nixon's proposals, including the time proposal, do not match what energy experts have said is required to meet the problem.

"The harsh prognosis of his energy experts ... has not been reflected in the program announced by this administration," Humphrey said. He said administration experts, as well as business leaders, had testified that if voluntary conservation and mandatory allocation to dealers doesn't work, "we are going to have rationing."

Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar backed Humphrey up on the rationing question. He told a national conference on seat belt safety that if Nixon's program doesn't work, "it may soon be followed by gasoline rationing, although we certainly hope to avoid it."

Safe At Stanford Looted Of $700

STANFORD (UPI) — Stanford University police report that $700 was taken from the school safe.

Nixon Quiz Proposed By Ruckelshaus

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Former Deputy Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus says one way President Nixon might clear the air on Watergate would be for him to subject himself to crossexamination by the Senate Watergate Committee.

"A cloud of suspicion still hangs over the Watergate affair," said Ruckelshaus, who was fired in October for his refusal to dismiss special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

He told a news conference yesterday that "some people still have a problem in believing that the President was not involved. He is not yet at the point where Watergate is behind him."

"The President has wisely promised full disclosure, and it's in his interest to be as forthcoming as possible with information," Ruckelshaus said. "The President can't possibly renege on full disclosure."

"One way would be to subject himself to cross-examination, and the Watergate committee would be one mechanism for this," he said.

"The president could, for example, submit to questioning by Sen. Sam Ervin, Sen. Howard Baker and the new special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, and then make a transcript available to the American people."

Ruckelshaus was in town to speak to students at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Double Troubles Ahead For Motorists

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Motorists face double troubles on California highways this weekend with the abrupt change in some freeway speed limits Saturday and uncertain gas supplies for Sunday.

Beginning Saturday the current 70 miles an hour speed limit on isolated freeway sections will be reduced to 65 mph, the maximum elsewhere in the state.

Highway officials said all the 70 mph road signs will be down by then, but no new signs will go up in their place since they are further stranded as gas stations close.

The California Highway Patrol issued a warning for Sunday drivers on Interstate 5. "Few gasoline stations will be open between Gorman and Tracy," the bulletin cautioned.

President Nixon has called on stations to voluntarily close from 9 p.m. Saturday until midnight Sunday to conserve fuel.

The patrol said, "Indications now are that no more than two stations will be open Sunday on I-5 in Kern County, none in Fresno County and perhaps six in Merced County."

A. D. Majors, the patrol's Fresno zone commander, advised motorists not to make any Sunday journeys on the lonely road if possible, or to fill up before reaching the Kern-Fresno-Merced stretch.

The Automobile Club of Southern California was advising Sunday drivers that only Standard Oil stations were closing for sure.

The club warned, however, motorists traversing the state should use California 99 or U.S. 101 if possible, where there are more stations.

SERVING MARIN AND SONOMA SINCE 1884

THIS SHOPPER at the Co-Op Market in Corte Madera will be paying more for groceries next year if the predictions of 14 Marin grocers are accurate. Cited by the grocers as causes for the price hikes are rising labor costs, product scarcities and gas rationing.

Market Spokesmen In Marin See Higher Food Prices Next Year

By JOAN LISETOR

If present trends continue Marin consumers will be paying more for food in 1974, according to spokesmen for 14 markets in Marin County.

A variety of reasons for rising costs was given in a random telephone sampling of stores throughout Marin but most agreed shortages and labor costs are the major factors for the increases.

"Prices are going up. I don't see any indication they will go down," said Daniel Hayden, owner of Hayden's Marin City Market.

Hayden said he feels prices may stabilize in the latter part of 1974, but he is certain the momentum of rising prices will continue through the end of next year.

"THE TREND for the last three months has been up, steadily up, on at least 200 items each week," said Alan Oda, assistant manager of Co-op Market in Corte Madera. "Usually less than 10 items come down in a week, but this week staples, such as oil and flour, were down."

Oda foresees a rise, he said, because labor and food costs are going up, and stores are forced to raise their prices accordingly.

Vic Masington, manager of P and X Market in San Rafael, admitted he has no idea where prices would go, but feels they should level out or at least hold at the present level.

"The way things are going you'll be paying more for food," said a spokesman for Byrnes Market in Kentfield, who declined to give his name. "Don't think that anybody's giving food away, not the farmers. They are driving around in Cadillacs and flying airplanes. Me? I'm still driving a 1965 automobile."

Berne De Gray, manager of the meat market at Byrnes was more hopeful.

"It depends on the economy. If it gets rough, food prices will drop; if it stablizies, prices will hold," he said. "I don't see prices going up unless gas rationing keeps people away from the market. Then prices will go up."

RALPH TRELEVEN, assistant manager of Scotty's Market in Terra Linda, said he doesn't see any other way for food prices to go unless it's up.

"I don't see what 1974 will change," he said.

Manager of the Cala store in Novato, William Flath, said he hasn't given much thought to where food prices are going but feels they have to go down.

"I see no reason for shortages and don't believe they really exist," Flath said. "You know its a political thing when you see empty fields everywhere."

A Petrini spokesman at the chain's Greenbrae store, who did not want his name used, said he didn't see any let up in price increases.

"There are plenty of increases now," he said, "but what happens in '74 depends on the gas deal. It affects supply and demand, which affects food prices. We'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Unless there is a change in the administration, prices are not likely to go down, according to Carlo Rocca, manager of the Palace market at Point Reyes Station.

"Because of the magnitude of the problem local agencies cannot effect changes," he said, "I assume prices will continue to rise as they have in the past ..."

"Wheat prices are up, and they are going to stay up," said Jim Canepa, manager of the Mill Valley Market. "I anticipate all prices will be up, but there will be no more drastic raises as in 1972 and 1973."

SHORTAGES ARE going to be more of a problem than costs, Canepa said. Because of the energy crisis there has already been a cut back on the production of aluminum foil, and crackers will be hard to get because there is a shortage of cardboard to make boxes.

"This morning there was no corn at the produce market because the truck ran out of gas in Salinas. If truck drivers have to stop over and stay in a motel, you can be sure that will be reflected in the cost," he said.

Greg Creighton, manager of the Ross Market, said that small stores will be hardest hit by cost increases.

"I think they're going to go up, although they are down now. We can expect an increase comparable to this year. Prices will go back to the high point of this year."

Oil, flour and mayonnaise will go up considerably, but rise in cost for vegetables and cereal will be minimal, predicted Eddie Clinton, manager of the Big G Super Market in Corte Madera.

"Any produce with meat, oil, mayonnaise or flour ingredients will increase, but your average can of beans or tomatoes won't jump," Clinton said. "Canned goods are leveling off. At least they have not jumped yet, and paper products are staying about the same."

Melvin LaFranchi, manager of the Food Mart in San Rafael, said nobody really knows what food prices will do, but he thinks they will settle down by the first of the year.

"PRICES ARE leveling off now, and we are absorbing some of the price increases. Staples especially have leveled off after going up terrifically."

"I hope they go down. They have gone down a little, and I hope they continue at least to level off. We are holding down the cost of staples by less margin and will continue to," said Howard Findley, an employee of Food Villa market in Fairfax.

Manager of the Lucky Store in Fairfax said, "We don't comment at the local level."

Newlyweds Are Living In Arizona

Living in Phoenix, Ariz., are Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mobley (Mary Patricia Grady) who were married Saturday at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Grady of San Rafael, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mobley of Phoenix.

Maid of honor was Linda Hughes of Kentfield, and the bridesmaids were the bride's sister Bridget Grady and the bridegroom's sister Kristine Mobley , both of San Rafael.

Gary Hoffman of Kentfield served as best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bridegroom's brother Jeff Mobley of San Rafael and Dennis Knowles of San Rafael.

A reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall followed the ceremony. The couple went on a wedding trip to Southern California.

Mary is also the sister of Kathleen and Kevin Grady of San Rafael. She is a graduate of Bay City College of Medical Assistants in San Francisco.

Stephen is also the brother of Robert, Kristine, Melinda and William Mobley. He is employed by Adobe Landscaping in Phoenix. Mrs. Charles Owen of San Rafael and Robert Mobley of Oklahoma are his grandparents.

PARENT AND CHILD

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Friends Must Be Selected On Common Goals In Life Styles

RAP:

Which RAP letter brought the most response last month? — TIM

TIM:

The girl who wrote "What Is a Virgin?" and signed herself "One of an Almost Extinct Species" hit the jackpot in our response meter. Consensus was: Virgin teen-agers are definitely not extinct, and you can have fun without the games once you shed the idea that you're the only hold-out.

Here are some of the better letters:

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

"One of an Almost Extinct Species" — isn't.

I'm a virgin and I know many more. I have a great relationship with quite a few guys. In fact, most of my friends are guys, and I'm far from a tomboy. They look at me (and my figure) and say "Hey."

OAES is dead wrong about having to sit at home weekends. I go to those so-called "wild parties," and find a lot of things to do. All guys aren't the "bed or bored" types, believe me. We do crazy fun things, talk on any topic, kid around, enjoy life and each other's company, sometimes discuss problems.

Being a virgin doesn't mean you're discriminated against. I know many guys who respect a girl for it —they feel different about sex than the way they act —and they consider your feelings. A lot of them aren't all that anxious to get a heavy thing going that they might not be able to control.

It's an interesting and beautiful experience to know you can talk to a boy on a one-to-one basis and find he understands —and likes you there because you understand, too.

If a girl doesn't wear her virginity as a halo, and show she's afraid all boys are just panting to knock it off, she won't have to sit home on Saturday night. — RESPECTED VIRGIN

RAP:

The people I hang out with aren't hung-up about having sex on every date. We don't condemn others, but we're waiting for marriage. Meanwhile, we have a great time at our weekly dances and many get-togethers. Yes, we belong to a church, but we don't use our social functions for missionary work. We simply try to associate with people who have the same values, and we have much fun at the same time.

"One of an Almost Extinct Species" should try our crowd. As you said, Helen, you meet a lot of great teens in church or religious groups these days. — MIKE

RAP:

When I was 13 I got mixed up in a crowd that thought sex was the only way to go. Now I'm engaged to this fantastic guy who doesn't hold my "past" against me.

But if I had one wish, it would be that I was a virgin again so I could give my whole self to this one special guy. If you wait until it's "real" it means so very much. That other was a terrible waste. — WISH I WERE

HELEN AND SUE:

OAES might be surprised at how many teens she thinks are doing it, are just talking about it. A lot of kids don't like to admit they're virgins, but they know they aren't yet ready. That isn't to say they'll wait until marriage, but many of us aren't jumping into bed for awhile, even though we don't advertise our "purity." — WAITING

. . . And here's a letter from the other side. We don't agree with the writer, but feel she should have equal time:

RAP:

I am 18, and sorry my folks don't understand me, but happy about the way I live.

When I was 14, I tried pot, and have enjoyed it ever since. Before I was 16, I'd been to bed with six different guys and don't regret it. I have dropped beans, reds, codeine, acid, opium, and a few other drugs I don't know the name of. Don't like pills, but pot makes me love life. Nothing gets an evening off better than a little grass, a little wine and the knowledge that someone loves you. — HAPPY, LOADED AND PEACEFUL

. . . To each her own — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

Truancy Grows At Alarming Rate In Country's Schools

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Truancy in the United States is at dangerous levels.

Reports indicate that even the youngest elementary pupils are skipping school for days and half days at an alarming rate.

Older secondary students, even those who check in at school daily, skip one or more classes with reckless abandon.

In large-city school systems, it is estimated that about 50 per cent of the students are truant part of each school year.

But truancy is not so much a school problem as it is a parent problem.

True, there are some schools where the atmosphere and the teaching are so poor that sensitive children revolt against attending them. But that's a parent problem, too, insofar as parents, presumably, are allowing such a school to operate on their tax monies.

BUT WHETHER a child goes to school at all and whether he is held accountable at home for his attendance in every assigned class is strictly up to parents and guardians. It's also up to neighbors, relatives and friends.

If children of working parents are not in school every day, the question arises to what extent is it the fault of those parents? Don't they have enough love for the children to see that they get to school?

One mother discovered, because the teacher bothered to call and ask her where little Billy was, that her first grader had not been at school for four days. Yet she knew that he went off each morning in school clothes carrying a school lunch.

That afternoon, at the appropriate time for Billy to be coming home from school, he appeared. Mother fixed a post-school snack and sat down with Billy at the table. The tale unfolded slowly; the mother had to curb her tendency to scold and lay blame.

Billy had found some "nice" men working on a sewer connection several blocks away. He had spent the days with them, "helping them out." Mother decided to wait until dad came home to talk it over with him.

TOGETHER THE parents realized that Billy was hardly to be blamed; but that the men who had allowed him to play truant were.

Monday morning found mother, dad and Billy all at the sewer connection job. The men apologized for not sending Bill on to school. A half-hour later mother, dad and Billy were all at school apologizing to the teacher.

And on Tuesday, Billy got to tell the class what he had learned about sewer connections.

Without this effort by the parents, it's quite possible that Billy might have developed a pattern of truancy condoned by adults who should know better.

Schools keep daily attendance records; some secondary schools take attendance at every class period. This means that it is possible for those interested to ascertain just who is skipping school.

Certainly finding and returning these children to school is a worthy project for any concerned parent group. Leaving all humanitarian reasons aside, it has been thoroughly documented that the youngster who does not successfully complete school costs the community more money than those who do.

The school dropout more often ends up on welfare, commits vandalism, is booked by police, becomes an alcoholic, and/or drug addict, does not maintain a marriage and so forth. Not all dropouts do the above; not all high school graduates are free of the above. But averaging statistics show that one common thread in deviant behavior in adults is a lack of ability to read and a record of truancy.

Home Inventories Should Be Made

NEW YORK (UPI) — You don't expect disaster to strike but you have insurance for losses from same — just in case. But do you have an inventory of what is in your house?

You should have an inventory of all property, written down and complete with photos to help in the event of a loss, says Georgia Skinker, extension family economics and management specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Keep the inventory in a fireproof place, perhaps a safety deposit box.

How To Keep Fine Kitchen Cutlery Sharp

To keep fine kitchen cutlery razor sharp, the Soap and Detergent Association suggests, do not cut bones, metal, string or paper. Use a wooden cutting board. Wash, rinse and dry knives separately and immediately after use. Check to be sure handles are heat and moisture resistant before washing in an automatic dishwasher.

When loading a dishwasher, separate the knives from other utensils which will dull blades if they are jostled against one another. Likewise, in storing knives, separate the cutting edges by drawer organizers or wall racks.

Multimedia Art Show Scheduled

Multimedia artist Ginny Lancaster is giving an art show Monday through Dec. 31 at the San Rafael Public Library.

CANDACE PROCTOR

Engagement Of Candace Proctor Told

The engagement of Candace Proctor of Van Nuys to Donald R. Winkler, also of Van Nuys, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Proctor of Tiburon.

Candace attended El Cerrito High School and is a graduate of El Secondo High School. She also attended the University of California at Los Angeles. She is now employed by the Union Bank domestic exchange department in Century City.

Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Winkler of North Hollywood. He was graduated from Polytechnic High School in Sun Valley, Valley College in Van Nuys and California State University, Northridge. He is employed by Standard Oil Co. of California at El Segundo.

The couple will be married on Dec. 29.

Marketplace In Two-Way Street

The marketplace is a two-way street. Rights entail responsibilities.

For example, your right to enjoy fresh foods from the supermarket corresponds to your duty to store those foods promptly and properly when you return home. That way the quality won't deteriorate.

Fellowship Sets Special Friday Series

A series of public Friday night coffee houses will be held beginning tomorrow by the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians at the church in north San Rafael.

Entertainment, various blends of coffee, hors d'ouevres and other refreshments will be featured, beginning at 8 p.m. during the five Fridays of the holiday weeks.

Two shows will be given each night, at 9 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Tomorrow bluegrass music will be played by Scott, Valda and the Coffee House Bluegrass Band. On Dec. 7 Noel Newton, guitarist, and Steve Wells, folk singer, will perform. On Dec. 14 bellydancing will be featured in a Casbah night; Dec. 21 two guitar soloists will play, and Dec. 28 will feature folk dancing and pre-New Year entertainment.

The coffee house is open only to adults, according to the fellowship.

Measles Shots Are Being Urged

Immunization of adolescents as well as small children against measles, particularly in rural areas and small towns where no sizeable outbreaks have occurred in some years, has been urged in a recent research report published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Blood tests conducted among high school students in Minocqua, Wis., population 8,218, found that 30 per cent were susceptible to measles, a research team from the University of Cincinnati Medical Center and the Lakeland Medical Association, Minocqua said.

Following the study, most of the students were vaccinated. The researchers warned that it is important to make certain that none of the girls vaccinated are pregnant to avoid possible damage to the fetus from the vaccine.

Couple To Repeat Vows In Sausalito On Jan. 5

Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Dremann of Berkeley are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Jana Lynn Dremann of Larkspur, to Maj. Mark Dowell Malkasian of Sausalito.

Jana is the granddaughter of Mrs. Arthur Matthews and Mrs. Edward Dremann, both of Berkeley. She is a graduate of Berkeley High School, California State University, San Jose and DeAnza College in Cupertino, where she received registered nursing degree. She has done post graduate work training in operating room techniques at Stanford University Medical Center. She is a member of the California Nurses Association, the American Nurses Association and the Association of Operating Room Nurses. The future bride is an instructor in operating room techniques at the College of California Medical Affiliates in San Francisco.

JANA L. DREMANN
To be wed in January

Mark is the son of Mrs. Faustine Bogart Malkasian of Watertown, Mass., and the late Nishan Peter Malkasian. He was graduated from Watertown High School and Northeastern University in Massachusetts. He is with the Army Corps of Engineers assigned to the Sixth Army Headquarters in the Presidio of San Francisco. The future bridegroom is a member of the Society of American Military Engineers. He twice was awarded the Bronze Star Medal in Vietnam.

The couple plans a military wedding Jan. 5 at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito.

Mill Valley Attorney Will Speak

Attorney Jettie Pierce Selvig of Mill Valley will give an address at the national convention of the Women's Equity Action League in San Francisco on Saturday.

Mrs. Selvig, as president of the California Division of WEAL, will also preside at the closing dinner of the conference, to be held at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel. Speaker for the dinner will be Marian Ash, publisher of "Skirting the Capitol," a newsletter of legislative issues affecting California women.

The conference will open at 9 a.m. with a welcome by San Francisco Supervisor Dorothy Von Beroldingen, followed by Mrs. Selvig and WEAL national president Arvonne Fraser.

Workshops will be held on women's interest issues throughout the day, and will include as a panelist Del Goetz of Mill Valley in the Women and Money workshop.

Program On Year Round Schools Planned By University Women

"A Look at Year Round Schools", the second in the Dynamic Learning series, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Mill Valley Area Branch, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Student Center, Tamalpais High School, Mill Valley.

Principals of two Petaluma schools, where the year round sessions are being held, will give the administrative view. They are Charles Cadman, principal of Cherry Valley School, and John Anderson, principal of Penngrove School.

The advantages and disadvantages of the 12 month program will be discussed by a panel of Mill Valley parents and teachers. Mrs. Phyllis Miller of the AAUW branch is chairman and moderator.

The audience will participate in discussion groups following the program.

The Dynamic Learning series includes six topics, and will conclude in April, 1974. It is being given in cooperation with Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, and Dominican College Inservice. Teachers can earn two units credit for participating in the series.

A nominal fee is charged for the sessions. However, the fee is being waived for Monday's program since it is a topic of wide community concern, according to Mrs. Trubee Schock, president of Mill Valley Area Branch of AAUW.

Senior Citizen Dinner Planned

The fifth annual Sonoma County Senior Citizens Christmas dinner and party will be held Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. at El Rancho Tropicana, Santa Rosa.

The party is sponsored annually by the Sonoma County People for Economic Opportunity, County Council on Aging and the Social Service Department.

Heading the entertainment will be the Rohnert Park Kitchen Band and the Sonoma State College Children's Chorus.

Gas Rationing Effect On Stores

Gasoline rationing would have an adverse effect on branch store business, according to a national survey made by Women's Wear Daily.

Particularly hit would be the impulse buying which results from repeated exposure to merchandise. A possible trend during the Christmas shopping season will be to make more purchases less often.

Many retailers feel that while gas shortages would damage the business of free-standing stores, it could have a plus effect on stores located in shopping centers. They foresee that the customer to save fuel would shop in a complex, where many needs can be filled on a one-stop trip.

Pamela Welch Is Engaged To Wed Robert Sutherland

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Welchof Novato announced the engagement of their daughter Pamela to Robert R. Sutherland of San Anselmo on Thanksgiving evening.

Pam is the sister of Debbie and Billy Welch of Novato and the granddaughter of Mrs. Joan E. Liebeskind and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Welch, all of Novato. She was graduated from Novato High School and College of Marin and is employed at Budds Travel and Tours in San Rafael.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Sutherland and the brother of John and Nancy Sutherland of San Anselmo. Mrs. Rita Sutherland of Santa Rosa and Mrs. Fred Roitero of Minneapolis, Minn., are his grandmothers. He was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, attended College of Marin and will be graduated from California State College, Sonoma in June.

The couple plans a June 22 wedding.

Jungle Motifs

Jungle motifs will appear in spring prints, with leopard spots expected to be prevalent. Sometimes the animal prints are used as an accent on bodice or sleeves, combined with long black ankle length skirts.

The Dead Tooth Is Put Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is no such thing as a dead tooth, says Dr. Bertram L. Wolfsohn.

At the annual meeting of the Greater New York Dental Society he said the only dead tooth is found in a dead person. The tooth lives as long as you do while it's in your mouth. His statement seems to contradict the centuries' old belief that once the nerve is killed or removed the sufferer has a dead chopper in his mouth.

Young Turks Of Fashion World Show Their Wares In New York

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — They're the young Turks of the fashion world. They're the new breed of designers who believe in the dressmaking art but reject the high luxury tradition of the conservative older houses.

They're the young influentials bringing good style to more and more women through boutiques or their own featured corners in department stores.

They're the likes of Clovis Ruffin, Stephen Burrows and Calvin Klein. Most still are in their late 20s or early 30s.

RUFFIN, BURROWS and Klein were participants this week in the semi-annual fashion openings which the American Designers Group stages for visiting reporters from newspapers, television and radio. The spring '74 fashions represented both the new establishment and also the old —the labels such as Mollie Parnis, Bill Blass and Geoffrey Beene.

Ruffin, born in Clovis, N. M. (thence his first name), is one of the most unconventional of the youth group. He said his Ruffinwear collection was designed for a new generation which "wants loud, cheap clothes." Many of his spring things were in the $30 to $40 retail price range.

Ruffin's models danced and pranced down the runway, a swingy new style far from the conventionally aloof mannequin. They wore clingy day dresses, striped every which way — vertically, horizontally, diagonally—and in a multitude of tones from muted to bright combos.

Some day lengths were above the knee, some below, some falling to midcalif.

LIKE MANY other designers do for spring, Ruffin dipped into the 1930s with bias cuts to the whole body of a garment, with slinky shapes bare-shouldered for evening and done in solids and prints.

Stephen Burrows, a 1973 winner of the Coty award, joined the kicky model kick too. And the clothes they showed were very mod, casual and sport for the day.

The look included vinyl pants, big ponchos with hoods, a poplin suit in red, casual cotton batiste shirts zippered up the front and worn outside the skirts or pants.

There was a '30s look too with Burrows, showing in slouch hats, soft crushable berets worn on a slant, high collars turned up around the throat, and softly flared skirts.

Klein, a native New Yorker who started his own business in 1969, featured below-knee lengths to go with what he called the softening-up look for spring.

Evening Chiffons Are Coming Back

Home Fashions

With current interest in Americana and the natural look, greater emphasis is being placed on detailing in home fashions. Denims, dots, ginghmas and patchwork are being used in ruffles, border designs and embroidering.

Coordinator Picked For Special Drive

Mrs. Ralph Clark Jr. of Terra Linda has been named 1974 coordinator for the North Bay Area Mothers March Against Birth Defects for the North Bay March of Dimes Chapter.

Margaret Clark has headed the volunteer drive in Marin for many years, beginning in 1966 as co-chairman of the march to help research and programs to prevent birth defects.

She will direct volunteer activities in Marin, Napa, Sonoma and Solano counties during the annual March of Dimes drive scheduled Jan. 30 to Feb. 4.

Mrs. Clark also serves as secretary of the North Bay Chapter, which is headed by Mrs. Walter F. Johnson of Novato.

Add Spice To Classic Dress

To add a little spice to the great American classic, the home seamstress can run up shirtwaist dresses in true autumn shades — like a bright primary or a jewel-toned dark.

Or pick a plaid in tomato, shamrock and crayon yellow. Or choose a check in teal and redwood brown. For a little eye diversion, sew the top in a stripe and pair it with a skirt in a polka dot or a herringbone.

Keep the designs small, though, so they won't become overwhelming or fight one another.

Effect Of Books, Toys To Be Eyed

"How We Limit Our Children By the Books and Toys We Give Them" will be explored Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Young Women's Christian Association, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Discussion will be led by Charlotte Krauss, a clinical social worker; and Susan Stanton, a school librarian, both of Mill Valley.

They will focus on sex role stereotypes and attitudes found in children's literature and toys.

Child care will be available.

Symphony Play Slightly Ragged

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The San Francisco Symphony opened its 62nd season last night with a performance at the War Memorial Opera House that was plagued by minor mishaps and, apparently, a lack of rehearsal but managed to finish on the upswing with a stirring presentation of Leos Janacek's brassy and bright "Sinfonietta."

The orchestra had trouble executing clean entries and releases all evening, particularly in the first work, Felix Mendelssohn's "Incidental Music to a Midsummer Night's Dream." In the same piece the narrator, Rohan McCullough, suffered a momentary memory lapse and started to walk off the stage after her final bow only to be brought up short by the microphone and still firmly attached around her neck. After the conclusion of the second work, conductor Seiji Ozawa tripped while stepping down from the podium and unexpectedly joined the first violins.

The first half of the program was taken up by the complete version of the "Incidental Music to a Midsummer Night's Dream" which when performed in its entirety includes a narrator, two soloists, and women's chorus. This music is better known in its shortened form as a frequently performed orchestral suite containing only four selections from the original.

Miss McCullough, an English actress who replaced the previously announced Geraldine Chaplin, performed her role as the narrator with charm, poise and excellent diction.

The two soloists, Soprano Lorene Adams, and Mezzo-soprano Evelyn Petros, delivered their small parts well and in good balance with one another. The all-woman chorus, part of the new San Francisco Symphony Chorus, directed by Harry Carter, sang with clear enunciation but a hesitant manner, as if not yet completely sure of themselves.

The American premiere of Arnold Schoenberg's "Modern Psalm" marks the beginning of the Symphony's centennial celebration of the great but still seldom-performed composer's birth. Schoenberg was working on the "Modern Psalm" when he died in 1951, and it remains incomplete, trailing off with a single soprano voice singing, "And nevertheless, I pray . . ."

The Psalm is a short but very effective choral work, scored for small orchestra, mixed chorus, and a speaker who pronounces the text in a half-spoken, half-sung manner called "Sprechstimme," or speech-song.

Andrew Foldi, bass-baritone, gave a powerful and emotional interpretation in his role as speaker. The chorus and orchestra handled the complexities of the atonal, serial composition convincingly, and were able to project the deeply felt statement of personal faith that Schoenberg meant it to be.

The real excitement of the evening was generated by the last work on the program, Janacek's "Sinfonietta." This piece, is dedicated to the Czechoslovak Army, is imbued with the patriotic feeling that Janacek felt at his country's gaining its independence after the First World War.

The work is divided into five movements, alternatingly jubilant and lyric. It begins and ends with brass fanfares which were performed by a group of thirteen brass instruments ranged across the back of the stage, and timpani.

The modal harmonies, melodic phrases, and rhythmic patterns are based of folk material, but developed by Janacek in his own personal idiom. At the climax of the work the combined brass ensemble and orchestra evoked the sound of pealing bells proclaiming freedom. This really produced a reaction from the packed house and a big ovation for Ozawa and the orchestra.

The San Francisco Symphony will come to the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium on Dec. 8 for the opening concert in the Marin Series with Christoph Eschenbach as piano soloist.

Drake High To Present Comedy Play

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," an updated version of a zany Broadway comedy, will be performed at Sir Francis Drake High School at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday in the Little Theater.

The play will also be performed at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 7 and 8.

The play, directed by drama teacher Dorothy Desrosiers, features a cast of both students and faculty members.

Students in the cast are Stan Stock, Wynn Ray, Carole Real, Gregg Olsson, Shelley Christie, Cindy Hechter, Becky Soladay, Pamela Giusto, Gian Bertini and Ross Parkinson.

Faculty members participating are Miss Desrosiers, Alan Agol, Harold Allison, Robert J. Maher, Jacqueline Hall, Ann B. West, Thomas E. McEntee, Joseph Baron, Elizabeth Scarpa, Michael A. Lopez, and Harry D. Belgrade.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Drake Scholarship Foundation.

Moliere's 'The Miser' Opens Tuesday Night At The Geary

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

Moliere's "The Miser" will join the American Conservatory Theater repertory at the Geary Theater in San Francisco on Tuesday night.

It will be the third Moliere play the company has offered since coming to San Francisco in 1967. That first year ACT offered "Tartuffe," which proved to be one of the most successful production in the company's history. The other offering was "Misanthrope."

The title role of Harpagon will be handled by Ray Reinhardt. Other members of the case include James R. Winker, Deborah May and Elizabeth Huddle. The comedy is under direction of Allen Fletcher, with a mid-19th Century Paris setting depicted by Daumier's lithographs.

DRAMA

In the East Bay, the Berkeley Repertory Theater will bring Henrik Ibsen's "The Master Builder" into repertory tomorrow night. The title roles are being taken by Michael Leibert and Hilde Wangel.

DANCE

The Bayanihan Philippine Dance Company, absent from the Bay Area since 1970, will return to the Masonic Auditorium in San Francisco on Saturday and Sunday. The troupe begin its 1973-74 touring season at New York City's Felt Forum.

MUSIC

Next week's guest artist for the second concert series by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra will be pianist Christoph Eschenbach, who will perform Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 2 under the baton of Maestro Seiji Ozawa. The series will open Wednesday night in the Opera House. The orchestra will also perform Rachmaninoff's Symphony No. 3, and the Symphony No. 3 by Charles Ives. The program will be repeated Dec. 8 as the opener in the symphony's Marin series at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The annual Christmas concert by the San Francisco Boys Chorus, celebrating its 25th anniversary this season, will be held Sunday afternoon at Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

Ugandan Leader Moves With Mobility

By HENRY S. HAYWARD
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NAIROBI, Kenya — He walks with the rolling gait of a former heavyweight boxing champion, which he was. He stands with the erect carriage of a former British soldier, which he also was.

Nowadays a rabid anti-Semite, he still wears the wings of an Israeli paratrooper, which he earned in Israel in days before he broke relations with that country.

From his capital at Kampala, he flashes messages of warning or praise, encouragement or appeal, to assorted heads of state around the world.

This is Gen. Idi Amin, president of Uganda, smallest of the East African countries bordering on Lake Victoria, source of the Nile. Flamboyant, volatile, unpredictable, the onetime sergeant has been the most vocal and most mobile African leader since the outbreak of the Mideast conflict.

GEN. IDI AMIN
Timing paying off

From the relative isolation of his inland nation of 8 million people, he has taken on the United States, Britain, and Israel with impunity, considering each of these distant powers had more pressing matters than Uganda to worry about at the time.

Due to the absurdity of some of his vocal antics, a number of outside observers find it hard to take President Amin seriously. After all, they say, he grabbed power less than three years ago, and Uganda has been independent only 11 years.

With Asian shopkeepers and businessmen already ousted from his country, and with more foreigners leaving daily in exasperation, fear, or under pressure, one Western diplomat describes the situation in Uganda as "sheer chaos."

Even Amin now admits the shortage of commodities in his country, although claiming this is just temporary. He mentions profiteering by remaining businessmen and indirectly refers to Ugandan soldiers' beating or intimidating civilians and overdrinking.

Yet, like a boxer, Amin is wily and has a good sense of timing. With the Mideast war halted and black Africa unanimous in supporting the Arabs, he moved swiftly to restore good relations with neighboring Tanzania and Kenya. Leaders of both countries acceded graciously, in the interest of East African harmony.

His frequent trips abroad appear to be one way to divert attention from the growing unrest within Uganda. But the scope of his wanderings is limited by the aircraft available. Propeller-driven Ugandan military planes are not feasible.

His visit to Mideastern capitals during the recent conflict was made possible by the Saudi Arabians, who provided a jet plane for the general.

Another Amin attention-diverting tactic in his homeland has been to manufacture a series of unlikely external threats, the most recent being from the Americans. Even after Washington pulled out the last of its diplomats, Amin's Radio Uganda was fulminating against "dirty activities by the 200 Americans who have been posted in missions by the American Government to confuse the people."

These 200 were mostly missionaries, but he claimed they were there "to bring about chaos" and ordered his military forces to keep a strict watch on them.

32-YEAR LOVE AFFAIR

Career Ending At Sunny Hills

By MARY LEYDECKER

Thirty-two years ago, Sunny Hills in San Anselmo was a farm within a city, 60 acres producing milk and eggs, and the idyllic setting was the home of 100 youngsters, some of them as young as 2 years old.

Since 1941, when Albert T. Borchert came to Sunny Hills as manager of the farm and 4-H leader, he has seen the institution gradually change to its present use — that of providing an intensive program for about 50 disturbed adolescents.

The farm is no more, and Sunny Hills has shrunk to about 40 acres, with sections of land now used by a school and a shopping center.

Borchert, who is retiring in January, reminisced about his long years at Sunny Hills, where he's held various jobs and the youngsters he has known and loved there.

Borchert seemed a natural choice when he was hired at Sunny Hills. He had grown up on an 800-acre ranch near Paso Robles, studied agriculture at the University of California at Davis and then attended a trade school in Los Angeles to learn heating, engineering and refrigeration skills.

When Borchert came to Sunny Hills, the old institution no longer was an orphanage in the strict sense of the word (most of the children had parents somewhere), and it had severed connections with the Presbyterian Church.

However, Sunny Hills still provided only "custodial care for kids from 2 years old to high school age," Borchert said The youngsters, who came from broken homes or had families unable to care for them, ate, slept, played and did chores at Sunny Hills, but they attended local schools.

"They were easier to handle" than today's Sunny Hills residents, Borchert said, because "most of them did not have severe emotional problems. The few who did, were helped by the others."

Furthermore, "the kids were regimented more . . . if there was a baseball period, everyone played baseball."

Many of the youngsters stayed at the home for periods of eight or 10 years, Borchert said, and to them the institution was their main childhood home.

Borchert's duties included running a very active 4-H program, in which Sunny Hills children raised animals as their projects.

"Some of the kids were helped tremendously in finding a sense of security" by caring for their animals, feeding them twice a day, Borchert said. Sunny Hills 4-H members, too, were regular winners at fairs in Petaluma and Santa Rosa.

Borchert remembers with fondness many of the youngsters who spent years at Sunny Hills. One boy, he said, got a scholarship to Davis and then went on to earn a doctorate at Rutgers University.

Despite a trend in recent years against placing small children in institutions, Borchert believes firmly that "many of those kids turned out better than if they had been in foster homes."

A scrapbook kept through the years by Borchert shows a picture of a bride in the 1940s. The young woman's wedding was completely a Sunny Hills affair, with Borchert giving the bride away, all the children invited to the wedding and invitations provided by a Sunny Hills board member.

During the war, Borchert said, "We had a pretty tough time" at Sunny Hills. Money was short and it was difficult to replace staff members who left. "Like everyone else, I ate things I had never eaten before," Borchert said.

"We had to bombproof all the windows by rolling up old blankets to let down to protect against shattering glass," he said, and paint window panes black for blackouts. "Fortunately, none of it was ever needed."

After the war, the institution stopped taking nursery age children, and by the mid 1950s, had begun to evolve into a facility for teen-agers with problems.

"I don't get to know them as well," Borchert said about today's residents, because the youngsters seldom stay more than a year or so. He added, however, that today's teen-age residents, participating in group programs aimed at helping them solve their own problems, take pride in the grounds and buildings and make his maintenance work lighter than in some years.

Borchert, who spent many years living in a cottage on the Sunny Hills grounds with his wife, Kay, who used to help with the children, in the dining room and with 4-H projects, now lives in San Geronimo.

He and his wife, however, reared their two sons at Sunny Hills, where Borchert said it was rewarding to bring them up on a "farm within a city."

After retiring, the Borcherts plan to move to a mobile home on five acres of property their younger son has in Santa Rosa.

"I've been planning this day for a year and a half," he said about his retirement. He and his wife share many hobbies, square dancing, golf, antique furniture refinishing and gardening, and he plans to fill his days with these activities — "with time for what I want to do."

LAST DAYS — Albert T. Borcherd pauses on his power mower to look across the Sunny Hills grounds in San Anselmo, where he has spent 32 years working in various capacities, including chief of maintenance. Borcherd came to the institution when it was still a "farm within a city" in 1941.

Committee Suggestions Are Adopted

The Novato Unified School District board adopted the recommendations of a language-arts committee for the continuing program for all the schools from kindergarten through sixth grade at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The committee recommended that it select all materials with emphasis on individual instruction. It also wanted to decide the best methods to get the information on the instructional material to the teachers.

It recommended that the program be reviewed periodically to see that it was kept up in all of the schools.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted $1,000 from the Lu Sutton School Parent-Teacher Association; $400 from the San Ramon School Parent-Faculty Club and a set of encyclopedias from Bruce D. Eytinge.

PERSONNEL — Hired for the remainder of this school year, Beverly Jensen at $6,187 and Donna Dicker at $6,444 both for Hamilton School; Lynne Strebel at $7,828 for Rancho School and Eileen Fletcher at $6,295 for Sinaloa Junior High School.

WORK STUDY — Authorized $500 to match $1,951 federal funds for a $2,451 work study program.

YOSEMITE — Authorized $1,000, $500 each for Novato and San Marin high schools, to take part in a week-long science study in Yosemite National Park.

NEW COURSES — Authorized these new courses for the adult evening high school winter term: a workshop for widowed and divorced persons, environmental drawing, world's great books, special canvas embroidery workshop, home repair, lecture series on astrology, painting marinescapes and landscapes and body conditioning for women.

COMMITTEE — Appointed 55 persons to a parent advisory committee.

CHAIRS — Authorized purchase of 210 chairs for the Novato High School cafeteria, the cost to come from the cafeteria fund.

TIFF — Listened to a tiff between trustees Betty Machado and Ronald D. Schenck over Sinaloa Junior High School changing its hours for its parent participation day without consulting the board. Mrs. Machado said that the board should have approved it beforehand and Schenck disagreed.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Dec. 11 at the Novato High School lecture hall, when it will discuss budget priorities and hear a report on year-round school.

City Officials Want More Study On Growth Controls

By PAT ANGLE

Marin's city officials last night wrestled briefly with a proposed growth control ordinance to limit future residential development in the county, then decided to take no stand on the measure until January.

After hearing explanations of the measure from county officials, the Council of Mayors and Councilmen asked questions and debated, then agreed that more study is needed.

The measure would create special growth control boards to carry out the policies of the Marin County General Plan. If the cities agree to work with the county in limiting growth, each board would have charge of a "planning area" which would include the cities. The board would review developments proposed for that area, then approve a limited number of projects.

The ordinance drew fire from some city officials.

"I'm not completely confident in working with the county as the result of some things I've seen lately," said San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini. He objected that the ordinance would take away some planning powers from the city governments.

"I personally have seen or heard nothing that will put San Rafael in a better position than we can put ourselves in," the mayor said, adding: "I don't want any part of it (the ordinance)."

County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. replied that he had come to the conclusion that some city officials "have their heads in the sand."

Arrigoni said the Marin Municipal Water District's ban on new water connections and the subsequent failure of its water supply bond issue had taken the power of home rule away from the cities by making most development impossible.

"If you want to reclaim the responsibility due to us as elected officials, you had better tackle this legislation," the supervisor told the mayors and councilmen.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney expressed similar views, saying the ordinance was not "a further effort by Big Brother County to encroach upon the cities."

Maloney said he does not think the people of Marin will be willing to pass a bond issue for new water supply until they are convinced that development in the county can be limited effectively. "We have to try to ameliorate this public skepticism about growth control."

Some officials objected to the fact that developers who include low and moderate-income housing in their projects will be more likely to gain approval of their developments under the ordinance.

"I don't see how low and moderate-income housing can be forced upon the people of my town," said Roy Farrington Jones, Ross Town Councilman.

Others from Marin's more expensive communities pointed out that lots in those areas cost from $40,000 to $70,000. "How do you put a $30,000 house on a $50,000 lot?" asked Tiburon Mayor Branwell D. Fanning.

"I don't know if there is any answer to that," Maloney admitted. "I don't know that it will work. It may be that all the developers who come in for approval will say it's financially infeasible. The only way we can find out is to test the market."

In the end, the officials decided to take the growth control ordinance back to their respective councils and consider it again at the mayors and councilmen's Jan. 30 meeting.

No Protest Filed On Dredge Plans

No protest has been filed against the Marin County Department of Public Works plan to dredge a channel from Civic Center Drive to the south fork of Gallinas Creek, according to an Army Corps of Engineers spokesman.

However, officials of the federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife said that the dredged matter must be disposed of in a way which will prevent runoff from entering the waterway. An estimated 7,800 cubic yards of vegetation and sediment will be dredged up, and the federal officials fear the heavily-organic material could befoul the water. Deadline for protests was Sunday.

24 Strep Cases Reported Last Week

With 24 cases last week, streptococcus infection was the most prevalent disease reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin Counth health officer.

Ten cases of gonorrhea were reported, as well as five cases of syphilis.

Was Nixon Only Beneficiary Of Union Gifts?

The Ervin committee's inquiry into campaign shenanigans has turned up illegal contributions from corporations to President Nixon's re-election campaign, solicited by Mr. Nixon's personal attorney. And now the spreading investigations resulting from Watergate have sniffed out some questionable contributions by labor unions.

In a lawsuit only tangentially associated with Watergate, former Teamster president James R. Hoffa filed a deposition saying that his union organized contributions of about $175,000 to the campaign shortly after Hoffa was released from federal prison by commutation of his sentence for fraud and jury tampering. After this became public, Hoffa said the figure was too high, but $60,000 to $70,000 of Teamsters Union funds had gone to the re-election campaign.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's staff reportedly is digging into a seemingly more unlikely contribution to the Committee To Re-Elect the President: $100,000 by the Seafarers International Union.

THAT LABOR UNIONS may have made illegal campaign contributions certainly should be no more surprising than that some corporations did the same thing. Both did it, probably, for the same purpose: to court favors from the White House and federal regulatory agencies, or in appreciation for favors already granted.

The surprising thing is that the only such union contributions to come to light so far were to the Nixon campaign, although organized labor generally throws its support to Democrats.

AFL-CIO President George Meany's refusal to support Sen. George McGovern last year was by no means endorsed by all the federation's affiliates. Certainly it meant nothing to the Teamsters — though that union may have felt it owed Mr. Nixon something for Hoffa's release.

THE PLAUSIBLE explanation seems to be that nothing has come to light about illegal funneling of union funds into Democratic campaign coffers because nobody has been looking very hard for it.

Senator Ervin's committee not long ago sent a questionnaire to about 100 top union officials, asking them to spell out in detail contributions of money and services to political campaigns by their unions and themselves. We have heard nothing as to the response to this questionnaire, but we would guess it has not been overwhelming.

IF POLITICIANS or political favors are for sale, no corporation is in better position to bid for them than Big Labor.

And if political corruption involving business interests is to be exposed — as most certainly it should be — then similar corruption by union interests should be exposed as fully.

Attempts to buy votes or to buy government favors are as contemptible when done by a labor union as when done by some corporate conglomerate.

In fact, they may be more so; for the money so spent by the labor unions is that extracted from its members as the price of their holding jobs under union contracts. How many truck drivers, we wonder, would willingly have "shelled out" for the Committee To Re-Elect the President?

ERWIN D. CANHAM: Time For Leadership

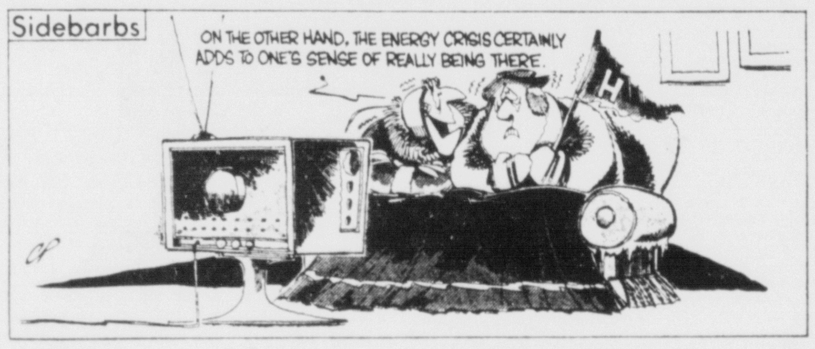
The "if's" which could cushion the impact of an energy-crisis-produced economic recession in most of the developed world are many. The "if's" which could intensify such a recession are even greater.

It is largely up to the wisdom, common sense, intelligence and capacity to cooperate of the western world and Japan whether or not we experience the most massive economic setbacks since the great depression.

The trauma of the energy crisis comes at a time when leadership is in short supply. No government among the industrial nations has outstanding leadership. All are flawed to some degree.

But the opportunity for leadership to come forward is great. Under fire, mediocrity can often turn into strength. That can happen now. And strength can come likewise from the general resoluteness of public opinion, the people themselves, just as well as it can come from their leaders.

APART FROM the mercurial panics of the stock market, which always reflects mass hysteria at its worst, American public opinion has responded to the energy pinch fairly responsibly. Some highway speeds are down, thermostats lower, lights less blazing.



But neither the executive nor the legislative branch of government has done more than make partial and inconsistent responses. A national energy policy does not yet exist.

One public official, Secretary of State Kissinger, deserves great credit for the opening of Middle East negotiations. If he also can draw together the western Europeans and Japan in a common petroleum consumers' policy — just as the producers have a common policy — he will make a tremendous contribution.

It should be obvious that with each consuming nation acting selfishly for itself there is no hope for real solutions.

A SETTLEMENT for Israel is essential. That nation's right to exist must be assured. But territories clearly belonging to Arabs must be returned to them. And the settlement must be guaranteed against aggressive overturn by either side.

The holy sites of Jerusalem, as has been obvious right along, must be internationalized. No viable settlement can possibly satisfy either side. But there are just settlements that could be lived with.

The industrial nations will require a two-tier energy policy. The immediate pinch can be met by various economizing measures, occasionally painful but essentially bearable. Such restraints will inevitably slow down economies. Bottlenecks are predictable, with severe impairments, but they can be borne.

At longer range, very fundamental steps will be needed. The profligate use of oil cannot continue forever. Life styles may indeed need to be moderated.

The costs of energy, and hence of everything else, are bound to rise. This, too, might curb consumption of non-essentials. With higher costs, some undeveloped sources of energy will become economic. New sources can be brought along. Some of them, like solar power, might be sensationally beneficial.

THE SHOCKINGLY SUDDEN arrival of the energy crisis should warn us all of the necessity to listen to the experts, and make contingency plans far in advance. Many knew the energy crisis was coming, but they got no hearing.

Responsible decisions cannot be postponed. Gasoline and fuel oil, alas, are the keys to American economic life today. The necessity for a rationing system seems inescapable. Decisions between the alternatives is overdue.

What we need today is the state of mind which a wartime crisis produces: leadership planning, citizen cooperation, awareness of danger, willingness to sacrifice, serious organization of countermeasures.

We are just beginning to realize the gravity of the challenge. We are just beginning to fight. The crisis can be overcome, but success will not be swift or easy.

Mideast Crisis Brings New Awareness Of Interdependence Of Nations

A funny thing happened on the way out of the Middle East war.

The French — who disapproved heartily of the pro-Israel tilt of American policy and had loudly protested at the time against the American nuclear alert which came at the climax of the fighting — proposed, not a weakening, but a refurbishing of the NATO alliance.

In fact, the French draft for a new NATO "declaration of purpose" would, if accepted by all the allies, reverse the French alienation from NATO imposed by Charles DeGaulle.

The French draft also shows a remarkable rise in Parisian appreciation of the importance to France and Western Europe of American military in Europe.

"A continued and substantial presence of American forces in Europe," it says, "plays an irreplaceable role in the defense of the countries of Europe."

It is a very long time since any such French enthusiasm has been displayed for an American presence in Europe, and since any French government has so committed itself to the American association.

Thus, so far as France is concerned, the "go it alone" inclination of American foreign policy during the Middle East crisis has jolted one European ally in wanting to get back to more cooperation and, of course, more consultation.

THERE ARE OTHER straws in the same wind.

The Japanese are extremely unhappy about the strain which America's association with Israel has put on Japan's vital oil supplies. They receive 80 per cent of their oil from the Middle East, and Japan is the world's second largest oil consumer.

They may even have to break diplomatic relations with Israel to keep their economy running. But they are not seeking independence from the United States. Rather they are reaching, as are the French, for more consultation rather than alienation.

THE MIDDLE EAST is another case in point.

Washington still is slanted in a distinctly pro-Israel posture, including a pending proposal by President Nixon for a congressional appropriation of $2.2 billion for aid to Israel to tide it over its postwar financial problems. Yet Egypt gave U.S. Sec. of State Henry Kissinger a warm and enthusiastic welcome when he stopped off in Cairo on his latest round the world trip.

The Arabs want more, not less, American presence in their part of the world, and seem to have accepted Mr. Kissinger's current theme that Washington can do more to get some of their lost territories back from Israel for them than can Moscow.

True, Egypt turned to Moscow for emergency help when the Israelis broke through their defenses on the west bank of the Suez Canal and nearly captured an entire Egyptian army. But they took their cease-fire from Mr. Kissinger and now look to him to keep them a presence on the west bank of the canal.

THE AMERICAN SYSTEM of alliances with Western Europe and Japan has been shaken up in a rough passage. But it already is clear that has not caused the allies to want to pull away from Washington. On the contrary, all seem to be freshly aware of the importance of the association.

As for Washington, there always is some atavistic yearning to the old isolation. There is right now some impatience about the special ties with Israel. Yet there is no real tide of opinion for any drastic withdrawal from overseas associations and commitments.

American foreign policy is no longer assertive, as in the Lyndon Johnson era. It is not "leaning" outwards. Rather its inclination is to stabilize and establish things as they are. It is defensive, not aggressive. But it is neither in retreat nor being repudiated by the alliance.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Z'Berg Seeks To Restore Equity For Land Owners

By EARL G. WATERS

What happens to the fellow who owns property but can't use it because of government actions?

This vexing question has been bothering conscientious public officials for some time. It has been more than a philosophical exercise for many property owners. And with the increasing requirements for planning, environmental considerations and what not, more and more people are finding themselves with real property they can't use.

IT IS NOT surprising that this problem would eventually reach the legislators. But it will perhaps be surprising to many to learn that Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, is sponsoring legislation to alleviate the economic hardships caused by environmental and other holdups of property use.

Z'Berg has been the darling of the ecologists. He is viewed by many as being "gung ho," perhaps too much so, for environmental protection. He has worked vigorously for laws to conserve natural resources and the environment.

He was also successful in getting an appropriation of some $10 million for property acquisition at Lake Tahoe as a start in his long campaign to preserve the lake and its surroundings from further encroachments.

"BUT," SAID Z'BERG, "fair is fair. People who buy or hold property in good faith should not be made to suffer economically because of the actions or inactions of government."

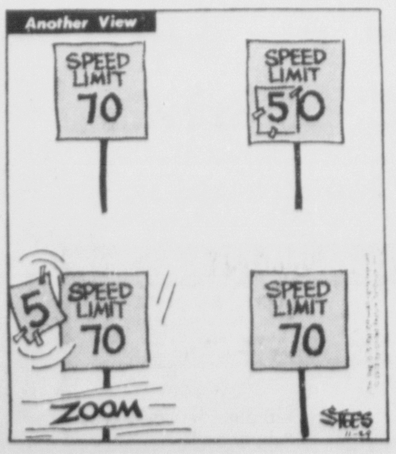
He said this is exactly what is happening in many instances where property has been acquired under existing zoning only to be subsequently denied that use by planning, environmental studies and other government restrictions.

Z'Berg said his remedial legislation will apply to all real property other than single residence homes.

"Whatever the cause, if the governmental agency is denying use of property for which it has been zoned, the owner is being damaged," said Z'Berg. "Our constitution requires that owners be compensated for property taken by eminent domain. If use of property is denied for an unreasonable period of time, even though it is not taken by eminent domain, that would constitute inverse condemnation and the owner would be entitled to compensation. But people are still bearing hardships even where an agency is acting within a reasonable period and properly using its police powers. It is this void that needs to be filled."

ON THE OTHER HAND Z'Berg pointed out that some property owners are reaping a benefit from government actions. "Owners of property adjacent to a public project often profit by enhanced land values. It may be that a dam creates a lake, or a park adds to the neighborhood, or a freeway makes commercial or industrial land more desirable."

To balance the books between benefits and hardships, his legislation would tax such "unearned increments" and place revenues from such a tax into a fund to reimburse the property tax payments of those whose land has been restrained from use by governmental actions.



REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 29, 1963

San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter Airlines announced it planned to begin Marin County service within 30 days.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 29, 1953

The government of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru in India made preparations for a cool reception for touring U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, making no secret of lack of enthusiasm for his visit.

A week-end strike by the International Photoengravers Union closed all New York newspapers except the Herald-Tribune.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Proud To Be Part Of Garden Society

We, the Garden Society of Marin, wish to thank the Independent-Journal for the coverage of our recent fall flower festival.

The staff was so very cooperative, not only with notices, stories, etc., but with their beautiful photographs.

As I watched people moving about, enjoying the event on that gorgeous fall week end at the Marin Art and Garden Center, where it was held, I knew what it was all about — for this was what the Garden Society represents — and I, for one, am proud to be a part of it.

Burned Spot On Package; Post Office Blamed

How disgusting can you get? Recently we had a little parcel sent us from Sacramento. When we received it someone in the mailing room (where else?) had laid a lit cigarette on our parcel, which had burned right through the paper and almost through the box. Fortunately it was my small transistor radio, but what if it had been nylon pajamas or other garments? Doesn't anybody work in post offices but stupid, thoughtless idiots? To me my mail is very important. I receive checks, gifts from overseas, numerous letters from friends abroad, and bills — yes, plenty. Burn these if you must but for God's sake be careful with other people's property. "I'm burned up."

Water District Directors Took Proper Position

It is very irresponsible for the Marin County Grand Jury foreman to write to the MMWD board of directors charging that the board was the main reason the water bond election failed Nov. 6. It sounds much more like a letter from a disgruntled developer. It's hard to imagine how the grand jury think they have anything to charge the directors of the MMWD with.

If there had been sound reasons why the water bonds were really needed, the reasons would certainly have been brought out by the proponents, just as the reasons against the water bonds would be brought into the open by the opponents. Each side stated it's case. There was no need, nor would it have been proper for, the board of directors to campaign for or against the measure.

I know that the director from our district, Dr. Martin Griffin, refused to discuss the bond issue with anyone, including the people who worked to elect him, as I for one was privileged to do. Dr. Griffin obviously believed as I believe — that once the bond issue was presented, it was up to the voters to decide for themselves. This, I feel, they did.

(The charges against the MMWD board were not in the form of a letter from the grand jury foreman to the water district directors. They were in an interim report of the grand jury as a whole, made to the county board of supervisors. — Editor)

Finds Grand Jury Report 'Strange Happening'

Thanksgiving week 1973 — Marin County was treated to a strange "happening": the interim report of the grand jury on the Marin Municipal Water District.

In this report the grand jury not only has unfairly maligned the MMWD board of directors and irresponsibly based its assessment of the defeat of the water bond measure on speculative opinion rather than provable fact. But, perhaps most important of all, the grand jury has greatly mis-used its investigatory mandate and legal powers, and its duty to protect the public interest in the "proper performance of county functions"...

Further, this report stands out in disappointing contrast to some of the careful, constructive services performed by last year's grand jury, and, in my view, seriously impairs the credibility and effectiveness of future grand juries.

With only two days to recover from the feeling of outrage generated by the grand jury report, we were treated to yet another absurdity: the Nov. 21 Independent-Journal editorial, which, without questioning the lack of factual basis to substantiate the grand jury's charges, proceeded to condemn the MMWD water board for its "iniquitous influence on government... (because) it twist(ed) the law for the special benefit of those who practice a particular off-beat life style..."

Someone has got to be kidding!

PAM LLOYD

Mill Valley

(A more careful reading of the editorial of Nov. 21 would disclose that it did not accuse the water district of twisting the law for special benefit of those who practice an off-beat life style, nor of twisting the law to favor International Telephone and Telegraph Co. — Editor)

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

History Repeats In Greece; Will U.S. Repeat Mistakes?

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The bloodless coup which toppled President George Papadopoulos meant for Greece a return to April 21, 1967, and for the same announced reasons.

For the United States it could mean a repetition of the embarrassments which have marked its relations with the Papadopoulos regime.

IT WAS ON APRIL 21, 1967, that Greek army colonels seized power in a coup d'etat they declared necessary "for the salvation of the country." Elections set for the following month, they said, "would have led to anarchy."

It appeared no accident that Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ioannides, strongman of the coup of Nov. 25, 1973, should have been among the colonels who staged the coup of 1967, and that it also should be declared necessary to save the country from "chaos and catastrophe."

Nor was it a coincidence that this coup also preceded elections which coup leaders denounced as an "electoral adventure."

They charged proposed elections for 1974 would serve only as a cover-up for Papadopoulos's plans for continued one-man rule.

An opposing argument also introduced was that Papadopoulos was reintroducing democracy before the country was ready for it. This was a view held by hardline army officers and others unhappy over their forced exit from government to make way for a new civilian cabinet and premier.

TROUBLE FOR the Papadopoulos regime began piling up last February in massive student demonstrations.

They were followed by an abortive navy coup in May and by more violent demonstrations which began Nov. 4 after a memorial service for former Premier George Papandreou.

Papandreou had been a particular target of the 1967 coup. Coup leaders accused him of plotting a revolution.

The official United States view of the new regime becomes of particular interest in light of its relations with the one just toppled.

The United States suspended arms sales to Greece after the 1967 coup but resumed them in 1968, based on the need for Greece's continued presence in NATO.

This was despite the almost universal condemnation of the Greek regime by the United States' NATO allies, both because of its authoritarian nature and because of charges of using torture on its political prisoners.

IN VISITS TO ATHENS, ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew and former Secy. of Commerce Maurice Stans praised the Greek government for the stability it had brought to the country.

President Nixon declared military aid to Greece "necessary to the defense of Israel"— a claim negated by Greek refusal to permit American use of Greek bases for supply flights to Israel in the Yom Kippur war.

LAST OIL FROM SAUDI ARABIA

Seen across the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, the chartered tanker Sidney Spiro lies in a shadow of fog at a pier at the Standard Oil refinery in Richmond. She arrived in the San Francisco Bay Sunday with Standard's last scheduled shipment of crude oil from Saudi Arabia. The Sidney Spiro took on 780,000 barrels on Oct. 18 as the last tanker to be loaded before Saudi Arabia and other Arab states imposed their oil embargo due to the Mideast war.

Campaign Funds Accord Reached

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate leaders agreed today on a compromise plan that likely will lead to passage of legislation to finance presidential elections from federal tax money.

The compromise included dropping public financing of congressional elections from a Senate-passed bill, leaving only a section regarding presidential elections, House sources said.

The agreement was reached at a breakfast meeting between House Speaker Carl Albert, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and other congressional leaders.

The Watergate-inspired legislation is the most far-reaching campaign reform legislation to be considered by Congress. It would outlaw private contributions to presidential candidates.

For 1976, each of the nominees of the two major parties would get $21 million for his general election campaign.

House leaders opposed also financing House and Senate races from public funds. Some congressional sources said the Senate leaders never really expected to get the House to accept any more than public financing of the presidential election.

The Senate originally attached its legislation to a bill to increase the limit on the national debt from $460 billion to $475.7 billion, which must be passed by Friday midnight.

President Nixon then would be hard pressed to veto the bill because at midnight Friday the debt ceiling would revert to its "permanent" level of $400 billion, and the government would be unable to pay its bills because the public debt is now far beyond $400 billion.

The Senate on Tuesday attached to the debt ceiling bill amendments that would finance both presidential elections and House and Senate elections from tax funds.

Under the Senate bill, no private contributions would be allowed for general elections. Presidential candidates would be given $21 million in public funds; Senate candidates, $175,000; and House members, $90,000.

Under the House leadership compromise, the provisions regarding Senate and House election financing would be dropped and the presidential election provision likely would be scaled down.

Tough Little Critter

Discovery of this organism in an alkaline spring has given new support to the theory that life might exist on Jupiter. The caustic alkilinity of the Jovian atmosphere had been the main argument against the possibility of life existing there. However, NASA scientists found that these rod-shaped bacteria could withstand alkilinity 10 times greater than the level previously thought possible for living organisms. Thus, they could possibly survive in Jupiter's atmosphere of ammonia, methane, hydrogen, and water. A NASA spacecraft will pass Jupiter next Monday and radio back data.

DO YOU KNOW — What spacecraft will fly by Jupiter Monday?

Senate Votes Broadened Medicare Drug Coverage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted to broaden Medicare coverage to pay for prescription drugs to treat most chronic diseases of the 20 million elderly persons in the government health insurance program.

The proposal was attached to a bill raising Social Security benefits by 11 per cent—7 per cent upon enactment and 4 per cent in June, 1974.

The House has approved a similar 11 per cent increase, but has not considered the Medicare drug extension.

Last year, the House rejected such an amendment on grounds it would take too much out of the Social Security trust fund.

The new amendment, however, carries an increase in Social Security taxes to pay for drug coverage.

The tax rate would go from its present 5.85 per cent of earnings to 5.9 per cent.

Today is Thursday, Nov. 29, the 333rd day of 1973 with 32 to follow.

The moon is between the new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

American author Louisa May Alcott was born Nov. 29, 1832.

On this day in history:

Also in 1963, President Lyndon Johnson appointed the Warren Commission to investigate the assassination of President John Kennedy.

A thought for the day: American writer Henry David Thoreau said, "Time is but the stream I go fishing in."

Art Dealer's Sunday Offer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Art dealer Reese Palley has offered to fly customers from Philadelphia to his gallery here free if they are hindered in traveling on Sundays because gas stations are closed.

"Obviously the Sunday ban is needed, but it will certainly hurt Atlantic City. This is my way of serving my customers," Palley said.

Palley, who calls himself the "merchant to the rich" and deals in high-priced collector's porcelains, said, "I'm no philanthropist. If I can get my customers to Atlantic City, they'll spend."

He has has chartered at least four 747's to fly friends and customers to Europe and Hawaii to celebrate his birthday.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Bad Overcall Is Always An Invitation To Disaster

A flimsy overcall is the most dangerous bid in bridge. It is easier for an opponent to double for penalties than if you had made a flimsy opening bid.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

NOT DENIED

South's overcall of two clubs practically begged for the ax, and the request was not denied.

South managed to make three top trumps, one heart and a low trump, for a total of five tricks. This was a praiseworthy effort, but it fell three tricks short of the contract, and the opponents scored 800 points in penalties.

OVERCALL BAD

What was wrong with the overcall? South had high cards enough and his distribution was unbalanced enough. What's more, his club suit was strong enough for an overcall.

FATAL DEFECT

The fatal defect was that South had too many losing cards in an opponent's strong suit. It was bad enough to have five low spades, as South discovered in the play of the cards. It was even worse that West was surely short in spades and would surely be itching for a chance to double any bid that South made.

This fact should lead to a general rule: Don't make a doubtful overcall when you have length in the opponent's bid suit.

BIDS BY EXPERTS

Incidentally, if you think that no good player would dream of bidding two clubs on the South hand, there's some news in store for you. The hand was dealt in the European Championships some years ago, and at both tables the South player bid two clubs. One of them went for a ride of 800 points, as reported. The other South player escaped this harsh fate: His partner "rescued" at two diamonds and went for a ride of 1,100 points.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade, and the next player passes.

♠ - Q
♥ - A 7 2
♦ - A J 9 3
♣ - J 8 6 5 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

You will probably bid two no-trumps at your next turn, thus inviting but not demanding a game.

Cost Of Food Basket Drops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With retail beef prices dropping for the first time in 13 months, the cost of a typical food "market basket" registered its second straight monthly decline in October, according to the Agriculture Department.

The report, however, also showed the 0.5 per cent October decline could have been 2.4 per cent if middlemen had passed through to consumers last month's full price drop in raw farm products.

According to the report, the drop was due entirely to a continuing skid in the price of raw farm products.

Public Notice

RESOLUTION NO. 4608
A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO CALL A SPECIAL ANNEXATION ELECTION, AND FIXING A TIME AND PLACE FOR PROTESTS BY PROPERTY OWNERS.

WHEREAS, on the 19th day of November, 1973, a petition proposing that new territory, hereinafter described, be annexed to the City of San Rafael was duly received by the City Council; and

WHEREAS, said petition is signed by not less than one-fourth of the qualified electors residing within said described territory as shown by the county registration of voters; contains said description of the new territory and asks that said described new territory be annexed to the City of San Rafael.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of San Rafael as follows:

1. That it is the intention of the City Council of the City of San Rafael to call a special election to be held in certain inhabited territory contiguous to said City, proposed to be annexed thereto, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors residing in said territory the question whether or not said territory shall be annexed to the City of San Rafael, and the property in the territory subjected to taxation after annexation equally with property within the City of San Rafael to pay the bonded indebtedness of the City of San Rafael outstanding or authorized, at the date of the first publication of the notice of election, for the acquisition, construction or completion of municipal improvements, and subject to the improvement of the existing water facilities without cost to the City of San Rafael

Said territory is described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto.

2. That said territory hereby is designated and identified as "Country Club Annexation" and shall be so designated and referred to upon the election ballots.

3. Notice hereby is given that on the 17th day of December, 1973, at the hour of 8:00 p.m., in the Council Chamber of the City Hall of the City of San Rafael, any person owning real property within said territory so proposed to be annexed and having any objection to the proposed annexation may appear before said City Council concerning written protest against the annexation filed pursuant to the law for filing such protests. Such protests must be in writing, must be filed at any time not later than the hour set for hearing objections to the election and shall state the name or names of the owner or owners of the property affected by such annexation and the street address or other description of the property sufficient to identify it on the last equalized assessment roll. Protests may be made by petition, forms for which are available upon request at the office of the City Clerk. If it be found that protest is not made by public and private owners equal to one-half of the value of the territory further proceedings shall be taken in accordance with the law for the holding of such special election.

4. That the City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this resolution and cause the same to be published in the Independent-Journal once a week for two successive weeks prior to the hearing.

I, MARION A. GRADY, Clerk of the City of San Rafael, hereby certify that the foregoing Resolution was duly and regularly introduced and adopted at a regular meeting of the Council of said City held on Monday, the 19th day of November, 1973, by the following vote, to-wit:

TRAFFIC LINK TUMBLES

A tractor-trailer truck lay amid the wreckage of a bridge that formerly carried traffic over Joachim Creek near Festus, Mo., after the span collapsed yesterday. When the truck, carrying a load of heavy mining machinery, started across the bridge the whole thing came tumbling down. The driver, Kenneth Randol of Kingsford, Mich., suffered only minor injuries. He said the gross weight of the truck was about 35 tons, far above the reported limit for the aged span.

Heat Is Only Fuel Needed For Unique Little Engine

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A musician working at the University of California has come up with a clever new engine that uses changing temperature as its energy source.

Scientists at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission are so impressed by the device that they plan to design and test a larger model of the engine.

Ridgway Banks, a musician who earns his living as a technician at the AEC laboratory, created the "Banks Engine."

Its secret is the metal Nitinol, an alloy of nickel and titanium, which becomes limp when it is cooled and springs back to its original shape when heated.

Banks built a wheel and hung 20 straight strips of Nitinol wire on it. When dipped from cool water into hot water the Nitinol wires spring out, seeking their original shape. This moves the wheel. Another cool water bath makes the wires limp again.

The working model, which is described as "primitive", has been running at about 70 revolutios per minute since it was assembled five months ago.

It has an output of about .23 watts and a thermal efficiency of 3.4 per cent, which laboratory officials say "isn't bad compared with existing heat engines."

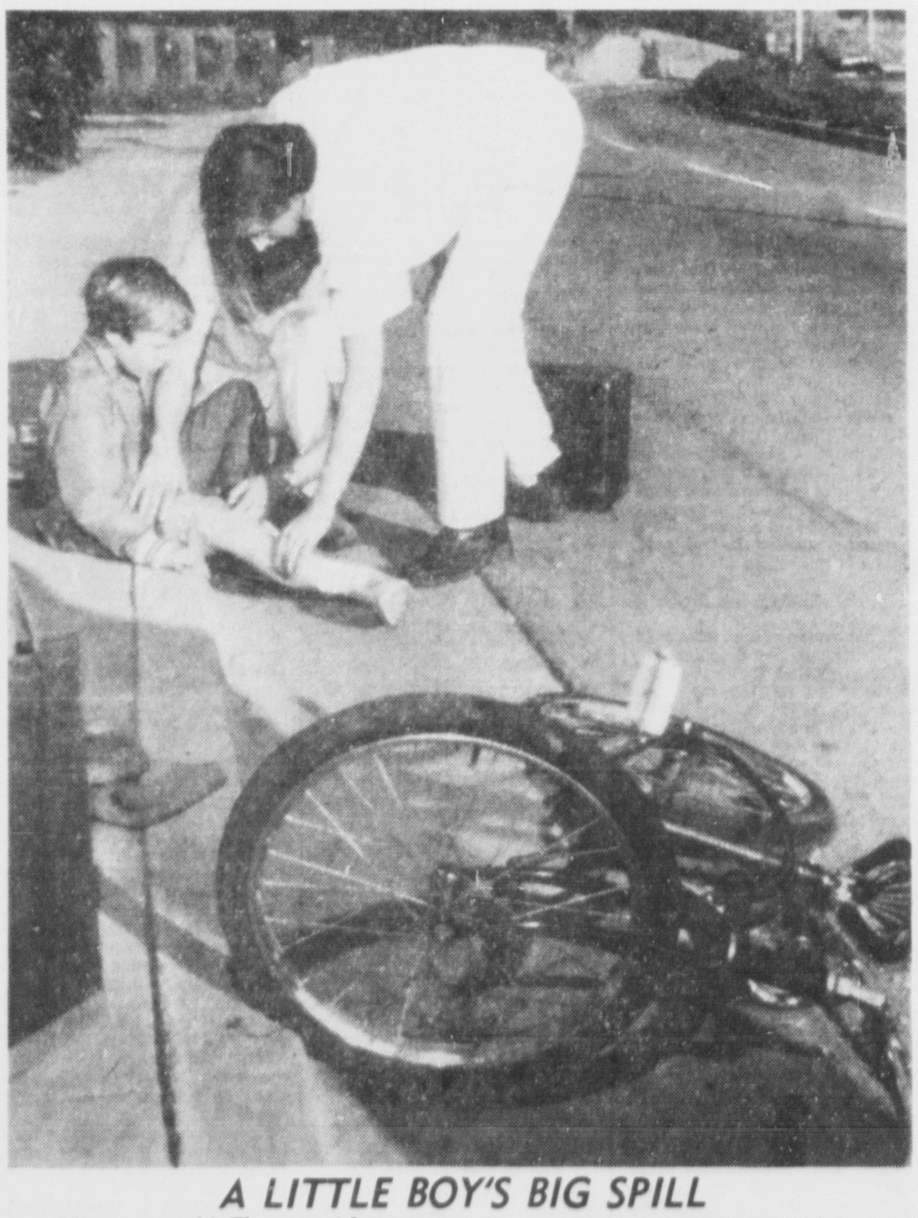
The wheel starts turning when the water baths are only six degrees different in temperature and reaches full speed with a temperature difference of 23 degrees.

Laboratory scientists said the engine "could make practical the recovery of virtually unlimited energy from waste heat, ordinarily an environmental contaminant, and from other natural sources that previously we have been unable to tap."

They said an early application of such an engine might be in heating and air conditioning. Teamed with a solar cell on the roof of a building, a Banks Engine might run on the varying temperatures between the concentrated sun heat and the cooler temperatures of the air.

Cooler Palace

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II yesterday ordered heating in Buckingham Palace cut to the mid-60s as a royal contribution toward easing Britain's energy crisis.



A LITTLE BOY'S BIG SPILL

Nine-year-old Thomas Afremow of 11 Aqua Vista Drive, San Rafael, is carefully checked over by two ambulance attendants following a collision with another cyclist yesterday at the intersection of San Pedro Road and Seaview Avenue. Although uninjured, the youth drew the attention of San Rafael police, an ambulance which arrived with siren screaming and lights flashing, and a curious newsman. "We had a crashup," reported Thomas as he remounted his bike to follow a police motorcycle escort home.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.
Other areas:
San Francisco, light air pollution.
San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Parole Board Is Reexamining Irving's Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Parole Board is reexamining the parole application of free-lance author Clifford Irving, convicted of conspiring to defraud McGraw-Hill with a spurious biography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Irving, 42, was sentenced in June, 1972, to two years and six months in prison and has been in prison since Aug. 28, 1972. He became eligible for parole last June 27, but the board turned him down in considering his case last July 30.

The board decided then not to reconsider Irving's case until next January, but the board has since been reported to have received "new and significant information" warranting an earlier review of his case. Irving; his wife, Edith, and Richard Suskind were charged with using mails to defraud McGraw-Hill by convincing the publishing house that Irving had access to Hughes and consent for Irving to write a biography.

Flame Put Out

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The "Flame of Freedom," a memorial to American veterans that was to burn forever outside the Oklahoma Historical Society Building, was extinguished today during special ceremonies. American Legion district commander W. H. (Bill) Baggett said the flame will be lit again when the energy crisis is over.

Fire Chief Frets Over Gas Hazard

San Rafael Fire Chief Robert Margucci, president of the Marin County Fire Chiefs Association, voiced concern yesterday about the stockpiling of gasoline.

"We want to caution people against storing gasoline in the trunks, or any other part, of their vehicles," he said. "In an accident they won't hold up, regardless of what kind of containers they are. We're very concerned that somebody's going to die."

The chief noted that county law forbids anyone from selling or storing gasoline in anything but a metal container.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hardening Of Leg Arteries A Problem When Circulation Cut

Hardening of the leg arteries rarely is troublesome until the circulation is reduced 70 to 80 per cent. The early manifestations resemble those that occure in flat feet, but the diagnosis is unmistakable when intermittent claudication develops. The latter is best described as a cramp, ache, or sense of fatigue that develops in the thigh or calf after walking a certain distance. To obtain relief, the individual usually stops walking for a few moments; he need not get off his feet to relieve the distress.

Intermittent claudication was first described by a veterinarian more than a century ago. He noted that older horses stopped walking after going a certain distance and would not proceed until ready to do so, despite coaxing and even whipping. After covering a similar distance, they stopped again.

Horses don't smoke, but smoking has been linked to intermittent claudication. When the disease progresses, the pain develops when resting. The distress is usually located in the bloodless toes and foot, and the victim sits at the side of the bed fondling the extremity hoping to obtain relief. Gangrene is the next step.

Intermittent claudication may progress so slowly that the individual learns to live with it. But treatment is advisable because the bloodless extremities are in a precarious state. The slightest injury or infection might precipitate gangrene. Applications of strong antispetics or exposure to extreme cold or to a hot bath or heat treatment may do the same. In other words, when the circulation is poor, handle the legs with "kid gloves."

"REST PAIN" is eased with the use of analgesic ointments, aspirin, or stronger pain killers. Relief also is obtained by injecting the nerve with alcohol or crushing the nerve to produce numberness in the painful area. As a rule, these measures are poor substitutes for modern surgical procedures in which the obstructing segment of the artery is bypassed with a venous or plastic graft. Now and then it is possible to clean out the obstructing gunk on the inside of the vessel. It also may be necessary to cut certain nerves in the back (sympathectomy) to relax the arteries and allow more blood to enter the extremity.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

'NERVOUS' BLOTCHES

A.P. writes: If I get nervous or excited, ugly red blotches crop out on my face, neck, chest, and arms. What is the cause and can anything be done about them? They embarrass me and make me terribly self-conscious.

REPLY

This normal skin reaction to emotions is not a sign of weakness, disease, or any other abnormality. In other words, there is no need to be embarrassed even though not everyone develops blotches when he or she is self-conscious or upset emotionally.

BARBER'S ITCH

REPLY

The antiring worm pill (griseofulvin) is a good remedy. It is advisable also to keep the skin clean and the beard clipped or shaved, to prevent reinfection.

RESIDENT DUTIES

REPLY

The resident's work depends upon the specific program of the hospital. He usually supervises and helps the interns and assumes responsibility for patients when the attending physicians are away from the hospital. The resident has a medical degree and, frequently, a license to practice medicine and surgery. In better hospitals, residency is a teaching experience with training in a specialty such as surgery or eye diseases. At the end of all of this a specialist emerges.

SLOW POISON

H. A. writes: What are the symptoms of arsenic in small doses.

REPLY

The symptoms of gradual poisoning are abdominal distress, including pain, nausea, and vomiting along with a reduction in the output of urine.

WEST DIAPER TEST

B. W. writes: What do you think of the urinalysis test to determine mental retardation in a newborn?

REPLY

The (wet diaper) test is simple to do but seldom is positive until the baby is at least one month old. By this time, brain damage may have occurred. A blood test can be done during the first few days of life while the baby is still in the hospital. This PKU (phenylketonuria) test is effective and easy to do.

Victim Of Cobra Bite Released

Hicks, in critical condition, was administered an antivenom serum about four hours after the incident and was taken off the critical list at Albert Einstein Hospital the following day.

Dr. Timothy Leary Gets Transfer From Folsom

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dr. Timothy Leary, who once escaped from a California state prison, has been transferred from maximum security Folsom prison, the state Department of Corrections announced yesterday.

The 52-year-old one-time guru of the psychedlic drug culture and former Harvard lecturer was moved Tuesday to the medium-security California Medical Facility at Vacaville, midway between Sacramento and San Francisco, department spokesman Philip Guthrie said.

"We didn't feel he required the kind of tight security they have at Folsom," Guthrie said.

He noted the Vacaville prison is fenced and towers with armed guards, but said inmates have more freedom of movement inside the facility than is permitted at Folsom with its stone walls.

Leary was transferred to Folsom in May from the minimum security prison at San Luis Obispo.

He escaped from the minimum security San Luis Obispo prison in 1970 and roamed through several European, African and Middle East countries until Afghanistan authorities seized his passport last January and he was returned to the United States.

When he esccaped he had served about five months on a six-month to 10-year term for possession of marijuana. His conviction for escape brought on a six-month to five-year sentence.

At Folsom Leary had worked in the prison's flower garden. Guthrie said no decision has been reached on his work assignment at Vacaville.

Map Needed For Cousteau Program

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Be sure and set aside an hour tonight for the first of four Antarctic specials by Jacques Cousteau that ABC-TV plans to broadcast this season. (Channels 7 and 11, 8 o'clock).

The show, "South to Fire and Ice," marks the start of Cousteau's sixth season on TV. It documents his first expedition to the Antarctic — a crew of 30 was along — and was filmed over a 4½ month period.

Like most of Cousteau's 24 previous shows, tonight's program is brilliantly photographed, low-key in manner and fairly slow in getting underway. But once it gets to its destination, you may be hooked and unable to miss a minute.

One suggestion for those who'll watch it: find a large-scale map of the Antarctic, because you'll need it to get even a rough idea of where Cousteau's team is working at times.

That's the only gripe I have about the show. It never superimposes a map of the area under study, although it does make a passing reference to the "farthest tip of South America."

Afterwards, though, Cousteau's team arrives in such places as Leopold Bay, King George Island and Deception Island without a hint as to the location of these areas in the Antarctic.

It's a minor annoyance, but I wish they'd pop a map on the screen now and then, if only for those of us — myself included — who tend to get lost just on the way to the grocery store.

The most startling thing about tonight's program is that it shows the incredible brilliance of colors in the Antarctic, a region I usually think of as stark white, dotted occasionally by frozen figures in furlined parkas. T'aint so.

Another surprise: Deception Island, a steaming, volcanic island, partly covered with volcanic ash, partly covered by snow and ice and, as Cousteau notes, "ready to explode at any time."

Tragically, it was on this island that Michel Laval, the young first mate of Cousteau's oceanographic ship "Calypso," slipped and fell to his death in late 1972 while helping the 63-year-old diver-scientist film this documentary.

Cousteau dedicates tonight's program to Laval's memory, and an excellent memorial it is. It's also a fine start to an unusually ambitious, thoughtful attempt to show us a world that unfortunately few of us ever will experience personally in our lifetime.

Time Nears For Action On Hamilton

The time soon will come to "fish or cut bait" in connection with obtaining some of the surplus property and land at Hamilton Air Force Base, the Marin County Board of Education was told Tuesday night.

Byron Mauzy, deputy superintendent, said the board earlier submitted a "shopping list" of buildings and property the schools office thought could be used for such activities as expanding programs for the handicapped and vocational training.

Then the staff learned that many of the Hamilton buildings probably won't meet state earthquake requirements for use by school children. Outside consultants may have to be hired to make such a determination, Mauzy said.

Although some buildings might be appropriate for such uses as housing a food service program, which would not involve housing children, and would not need to meet the earthquake standards, the time has come to "critically examine" the property, Mauzy said.

The board of education has made no provision yet for paying for improving or expanding programs at Hamilton, and much of the property also is being sought by the City of Novato and Marin County.

Mauzy said Joseph Denhart, director of the children's centers in the county, was named to head to a committee to propose to the federal government some use of the Hamilton property.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

TOUR — Toured and officially opened the Kent School for Hearing Handicapped at 250 Stadium Way, Kentfield, before the board's official meeting.

STAFF — Hired Mary Lynne Passero as a staff secretary in the county schools office at $590 a month.

ANALYST — Approved a new position of systems programmer analyst at a salary range of $1,058 to $1,286 a month to work on a new accounting system now required by state law in all school districts. The salary is to be paid from money paid the county schools office by Marin school districts for doing such accounting work.

GIFTS — Acknowledged gifts including $50 to the Shannon Kent Memorial Fountain Fund at Forest Meadows Development Center for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kent of Mill Valley, $25 to Marindale School from Edward L. Mundt of San Anselmo, and a 1965 Honda motorcycle for the motorcycle repair class from Jon Airola of Tiburon.

PROTECTION OF LIVES

Secret Service's Job Increased

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It was not exactly a slow response: Within an hour after President Nixon had publicly tapped Gerald R. Ford as his vice presidential choice, special agents of the US Secret Service appeared on the doorstep of the Ford home, to ask whether the Fords intended to stay on in the same house, and to check out security.

For the Secret Service agent, speed and versatility are essentials of the job.

The apparel — be it swim suit or black tie — and the activity of the moment depend entirely on the top federal official the agent is assigned to protect. Often, he gets little advance warning.

The importance and scope of the service's protection work have vastly increased following the assassination of two Kennedys and the shooting of former presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

In the last few years presidential edicts and Congress have combined to extend Secret Service protection to all "major" candidates for federal office as well as to visiting foreign dignitaries, a task previously assigned to the State Department's security force.

To handle the added load, the Secret Service was authorized to hire another 500 or almost half its present staff of 1,200 agents. All agents are college graduates and seven of those recently hired are women.

On the average, the Secret Service protects about a dozen people each day but on one day during the 1972 campaign that total reached a whopping 35.

Currently, with the vice presidency in a state of flux, the service is guarding Ford, House Speaker Carl Albert, and, at President Nixon's special request, former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for an indefinite period. (The House is to vote Dec. 6 on the confirmation of Ford, which passed the Senate Tuesday by a 92-3 margin.)

GERALD R. FORD
Quickly under guard

Also a bit out of the ordinary is the service protection afforded to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. It is assumed that in due time the State Department will take over that assignment.

The Secret Service reviews if not investigates every threat that comes to its attention and, accordingly, its advice to those it protects generally carries considerable weight.

A much-discussed case in point was the cancellation of a Nixon motorcade in New Orleans last summer.

John W. Warner Jr., assistant to the director of the Secret Service, explains that the agency's investigation, which included intelligence information, indicated the "possibility of a conspiracy." How good was their information? "Believe me, it was plenty strong," he says.

"Whether it will end up with a case solved is not the point, although quite frankly I wish it would be solved so that people would realize it was justified," he says.

Secret Service advice, of course, is not always heeded. It is the one being protected who must decide.

"We admonish candidates not to ride in open cars and go into crowds, but I've yet to find a candidate who didn't want to do it," says Warner.

Recently the agency recommended the use of military transport to Agnew for a trip to Palm Springs, but he decided on a commercial flight instead, presumably in response to criticism that taxpayers would otherwise pay the flight cost.

The Secret Service, now in its 108th year, was started as an arm of the federal Treasury to suppress counterfeiting and forgery. It took on its bodyguarding assignment after President William McKinley was assassinated in 1901.

Although its currency-protection work is less well known, the Secret Service in fiscal 1972 seized 83 per cent of the close to $30 million in counterfeit currency printed before it was placed in circulation.

The service refuses to discuss the number of agents guarding any "principal." Rumors abound that 100 guard the White House and 12 guard Agnew, but the Secret Service will neither confirm or deny.

The agents provide each person protected with 24-hour service, changing shifts every eight hours. While they do not necessarily set up shop in each individual's home, they must be nearby and because of it often become almost a member of the family.

Mrs. Ford, for instance, told friends at a luncheon that she had not watched a particular TV program because she had lent the family's set to the Secret Service agents.

Although the Secret Service is perhaps better known to the public for inconspicuousness than any other characteristic, Warner denies that it's any part of an agent's training.

Indeed, he says, "if you do not see the protecting agents when you're watching a prominent public official, you must be looking the other way."

He says, however, that the mission is best carried out by attracting as little attention as possible.

the shortest line in town

No waiting.

Why?

Well, frankly we just aren't very big in Novato. We're pretty big in 25 other Northern California locations with well over half-a-billion dollars in assets and over a hundred and fifty thousand accounts, but some people just don't know we're in Novato.

So here's your chance.

Come on in. Open your savings account. Have a cup of coffee . . . .

WITHOUT STANDING IN LINE.

PS: We don't want you to stand in line at any other place either. So to move your money just ask us to transfer it for you.

The Seals' Reserve Goalie Edwards Is An Unlikely Hero

Triggers Win Over Minnesota

OAKLAND (UPI) — At 38, Marv Edwards has emerged as an unlikely hero of the California Golden Seals.

The 5-foot-8, 155-pound veteran was a last-minute substitute for injured goalie Gilles Meloche last night and promptly kicked away 19 Minnesota North Star shots to pace the Seals' 5-1 romp.

It looks like Edwards will be in goal for about two more weeks for the Seals because Meloche severed a tendon in his right hand during a morning workout yesterday when he was slashed by a skate.

"Meloche will be out at least 10 days," said a club spokesman. Meloche underwent emergency surgery to have the hand repaired.

Playing in only his fifth game of the season, Edwards had the North Stars shut out until Bill Goldsworthy scored on a power play with 8:46 remaining.

Pete Laframboise scored his third and fourth goals of the season for the Seals. Ivan Boldirev added a goal and two assists while Stan Gilbertson and Walt McKechnie also scored for the Seals.

Defenseman Brent Meeke, called up from the Seals farm team at Salt Lake City yesterday, got his first National Hockey League point when he assisted on Gilbertson's first period goal.

Seals Coach Fred Glover said he may call up a spare goalie from the minors until Meloche is ready to return to action. That decision is expected to be made before the Seals hit the road for Toronto and Philadelphia his weekend.

There's Time For A Round Of Golf

Catching up with the golf scene:

Ray Leach of Novato, who failed to earn a Professional Golfers Association approved players card for the second year, will still be trying to earn money on the satellite tours.

Right now Ray is competing in the National Golfers of America's $260,000 San Marcos Resort Classic in Chandler, Ariz. a short iron from Phoenix. He will be trying to earn his bread in a series of four consecutive $65,000 tournaments, the first of which started Tuesday. Each tourney will be over 72 holes from Tuesday to Friday each week.

Top prize each time will be $6,000 and the money ladder scales down to $700 for 40th place. Ray's backers had to put up $2,500 entry fee before he even took his first swing.

MAT PALACIO JR. of San Rafael is going to be running around with movie stars and the top golfers in the game the first few days of 1974.

Mat was one of 168 amateur golfers to get an invitation to the 33rd Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur tournament Jan. 3-6 at Pebble Beach, so that's why he's really been polishing up his game lately around the practice tee. And the former California State Amateur champ (1936) is getting his knickers neatly pressed.

Although it will be the first time for Palacio playing at the Crosby in Pebble Beach, it won't be the first time he's played in the Crosby itself. He played in the prestigious tournament twice in the 30's when it was held at Rancho Santa Fe course at Del Marin in Southern California. His playing partner was baseball's famed Ty Cobb.

RON CERRUDO of Napa, trying to end the 1973 PGA season with a flourish, didn't get much of a start yesterday in the $150,000 Walt Disney World Open tournament in Florida when he shot two over par 74. Ron, whose parents live in San Rafael, was struggling around the unlucky $13,000 mark for months until he had a couple of good paydays this month. He earned $1,141 in the San Antonio Texas Open and then $5,812 in the $500,000 World Open in Pinehurst, N.C. to run his earnings to around 20 Gs.

FOOTBALL AND TREES: Frank Nunley, 49er linebacker and special teams player, will be signing autographs and shaking hands tomorrow night from 7 to 8 o'clock at the ninth annual Marin Festival of Trees at Marin Veterans' Memorial Building at the Civic Center.

And also for the sports fan, KNBR's Frank Dill will auction a Raider autographed football, a Warrior autographed basketball, a 49er autographed football and an autographed sketch of 49er players, done by I-J artist Jack Lucey. The auction is at 8 o'clock, with all proceeds going to the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science, sponsor of the tree festival. It sounds like an autograph hound's dream.

JOHN LOANE, kicking specialist out of Drake High and College of Marin, finished his junior football season as Cal Poly's (San Luis Obispo) leading scorer and the No. 2 scorer in the California Collegiate Athletic Association. For the season, Loane kicked eight of 10 field goals, ranging from 27 to 52 yards, and 39 extra points

Wise Is On Path To Golf Tour Winnings

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Less than a year ago Larry Wise quit his job as head pro at the prestigious Congressional Country Club to join the Professional Golfers Association tour and make more money.

"It's getting very difficult to make a profit on the club business," said Wise, who held the Washington job four years. "I think I can make more out here and I certainly have more freedom."

So far the 32-year-old has collected an unspectacular $13,807, with no wins, but he shot a 67 yesterday to share the lead in the first round of the $150,000 Walt Disney World Golf Classic and that should be good for a few bucks.

Wise birdied his last hole on the wind-swept 7,162-yard Magnolia course, after picking up five others against a lone bogey, to tie Grier Jones who had the same count.

Defending champ Jack Nicklaus, hoping to stay on top of the winnings list in this last tournament of the 1973 tour, shot a 70 with three birdies and two bogeys, despite some missed putts on the first nine holes.

"I did pretty well on the back nine," said Nicklaus. "I changed a little on my putting stroke to be a little more aggressive."

Wise said the winds, which came in with a tornado watch, didn't seem to hurt his game.

"In fact the wind seemed to be favorable out there on the Magnolia," he said. "It didn't play bad today."

Commenting that his game has improved in the past three months, Wise said, "I feel like I'm coming into my own."

He said his four years as a teaching pro in Washington "taught me when and how to gamble."

"I'm not a long hitter," he added, "but I'm a relatively good putter. I play the percentages."

Jones, whose $82,351 for the year is far below last year's more than $140,000, said he has been laid up with back trouble. He has played little in the past month, spending much of his time with a chiropractor.

Ben Crenshaw, the rookie standout who has won more than $76,000 in just two months on the tour, including the second place $44,000 in the rich World Open, started the day with 14 others two strokes behind the leaders.

The blond Texan crafted a 69 with six birdies, a bogey and a double bogey, and said, "I'm not hitting it as well as I did for a couple of weeks."

COMMISSION DECISION

Foreman May Lose Fight Title

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman admits it's possible. Too possible.

But unless he signs for a title defense against a leading contender by Jan. 21, he may be joining Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier as an ex-champ.

Being stripped of his title—when he says he's ready to fight anybody—is not a prospect that the 24-year-old Foreman is exactly ignoring.

"I'm more than willing to go along with them (the World Boxing Association)" Foreman said yesterday, "But nobody's knocking down my door to fight me. They shouldn't just put the burden on me.

"I'm a boxer, not a promoter. Who can I just grab and say, 'Let's fight?'"

Foreman, who is making plans to move to Los Angeles, has spent less than a round in the ring since demolishing Frazier in their Jamaica title bout 10 months ago.

His first round knockout of lightly-regarded Joe "King" Roman in Tokyo in August was not a defense against a contender.

It was the threat of losing his title that forced Frazier to agree to meet Foreman a little over 10 months ago. The current champion is just as eager to avoid that possibility.

The problem, the powerful-punching Foreman says, isn't with him. It's an apparent lack of interest by the other top-ranked heavies to take him on, at least for the money that has been offered.

"Rather than just making a ruling," Foreman said, "the boxing officials should be helping me out. What they should do is find me an opponent who'll fight me. It's sort of embarrassing. I've been talking to promoters every day. There's just no one willing to sign."

But to at least one optimistic promoter, Foreman's troubles may be over.

Don Fraser, who arranged the rematch between Ali and Ken Norton at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif. in September, says a two-fight package is being seriously negotiated, with an announcement possibly coming within 10 days.

The proposed deal would have Foreman fighting one of the top 10 contenders, including England's Joe Bugner, Jimmy Ellis, Oscar Bonavena or Ron Lyle, in early January, possibly on home television. Foreman would then meet Norton in March.

Prime sites under consideration are Las Vegas for the January bout and the Forum for the Norton match.

"I'm hopeful," Foreman said. "I'd love to fight anybody at any time. I'm ready. I love to train and I love to work out. That's what keeps me going. Without any fights, I don't know what to do with my time."

Foreman's only gym work lately has been light workouts and almost no sparring since the Roman fight. He admits there is some motivation missing without an upcoming opponent to key on.

ONTIVEROS NAMED PLAYER OF YEAR

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Sporting News, a weekly sports magazine, today announced that first baseman Steve Ontiveros of Phoenix in the Pacific Coast League has been named minor league Player of the Year for 1973.

Joe Morgan, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates' Charleston farm team in the International League, was named minor league Manager of the Year. He has moved to Pawtucket to manage the Boston Red Sox farm club there.

Ontiveros, viewed by many as having the inside track on the first base job with the San Francisco Giants next year with the departure of Willie McCovey, hit .357 with Phoenix to lead the league. He missed the last month of the season after being called up to San Francisco.

General managers Merle Miller of Tucson in the Pacific Coast League, Dick Kravitz of Jacksonville in the Southern League and Fritz Colschen of the Clinton, Iowa, club in the Midwest league, were named minor league Executives of the Year.

Tody To Get Fewer Calls From Bubba

Bubba, at 6-foot-7 and 265 pounds, is the left defensive end of the Oakland Raiders. His brother, Tody, who is two inches shorter and 10 pounds lighter, plays the same position for the Houston Oilers, who meet Oakland Sunday at the Astrodome.

"We get together on the phone and discuss football about twice a week," said Bubba. "We discuss strategies when we have mututal opponents ... like this week."

Adding quickly that he was kidding about discussing Raider strategy with his brother, Bubba offered a little friendly advice to Oakland's offensive line.

"My brother is quick, superquick, for his size and that really counts," said Bubba. "But each week I feel a little stronger and I'm beginning to regain some of the confidence I had lost on the field."

Bubba said he is slowly getting back to normal following off-season knee surgery.

"If we're in the playoffs, I know I'll be at full strength and be able to help this club far more," he said.

A Happy Spurrier To Start

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stating the coach "was a little down on me," Steve Spurrier is happy to hear that he is again the starting quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers.

Coach Dick Nolan announced yesterday that the former Heisman Trophy winner from Florida will start Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles at Candlestick Park.

Nolan said Joe Reed had started the last three games to give him experience after John Brodie announced his retirement at the end of the season and the 49ers fell out of the running for a playoff berth.

"When Brodie announced his retirement, I thought I should have gotten the first start because of my experience," said Spurrier. "But he went with Reed. I wanted to play against Washington and the Rams because those are big games and you'd like to knock them off—but coach was a little down on me."

Nolan denied he was "down" on Spurrier. "He was just upset because he wasn't playing," said Nolan.

Before being relieved by Spurrier against the Green Bay Packers Monday night, Reed completed only 5-of-16 passes for 44 yards.

Running back Vic Washington missed the 49ers' first practice of the week yesterday because of a pulled groin muscle, but is listed as a probable starter against Philadelphia.

Sweeney made the announcement at the annual Cougar Club Awards banquet.

Sweeney had been picked as an assistant coach for the game but moved to the top spot when the two other coaches' teams were picked for bowl games this year.

Last year Sweeney was an assistant under Oregon State Coach Dee Andros in the annual Shrine game.

Warriors, Portland Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — Big Rick Roberson will be missing when Portland calls on the Golden State Warriors tonight at 8 o'clock but the Blazers still have their great one-two punch of Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie.

The Warriors are 12-7 after an outstanding road swing that saw them take four of five games while Portland brings a 10-11 mark into the Coliseum Arena.

Petrie is the National Basketball Association's fourth leading scorer with 26 points per game with a 49.2 per cent shooting mark.

"I'm shooting better than I have in past years," says Petrie, Rookie of the Year in 1970-71. "I don't take as many bad shots and because we have a better team, I get easier shots. We've had some tough luck lately but I feel we can play with any team in the league this year."

Roberson is suffering from tendonitis of the knee and will have to sit out the contest.

The Oct. 10 fiasco which saw Detroit leading the Warriors 21-14 in the first period when the contest was called because of a slippery floor was reset for March 11. The teams thus will play both March 11 and March 12 in Detroit.

The good news was that league officials ordered the game restarted and not resumed with the 21-14 score.

PREP NOTES

Day Basketball Returns To Tam High School Gym

By LEW CODDINGTON

The tiny, cramped gym has not been used for an interscholastic game since the fateful night of Jan. 26, 1971, when a bomb scare punctuated an important game with Redwood which scarcely needed any punctuation.

Hundreds of fans were evacuated — much too slowly, it turned out, to suit the local fire marshals. The game was resumed from the point of interruption the following week at College of Marin, and Redwood went on to take the Marin County Athletic League title with a 48-44 victory.

Since that day, no games have been played at Tam. The Indians adopted College of Marin, some 10 miles away, as a home court.

The renewal of use of the Tam gym is being done on a modest scale. Only afternoon games unlikely to attract large crowds are scheduled there, and if necessary a limit will be attached to the number of tickets sold, according to coach Bernie Schneider.

The first game, against Galileo of San Francisco, was held Tuesday. A contest against Wilson of S.F. is slated tomorrow.

The probably big attractions, such as Redwood and Drake, will be played at College of Marin, where five home games are slated.

"You should have seen our game at College of Marin with Marin Catholic last year," said Schneider. "There weren't 25 people there. It was kind of ridiculous."

In past years, Tuesday afternoon sellouts were "rare," said Schneider, but crowds of 25 were equally rare. A good guess is that the use of the gym will increase the crowds, but not enough to tax the capacity, which Schneider estimates at "maybe 550," including players, cheerleaders and officials as well as fans.

THE BELLE — After its fine season last year, Drake High found itself invited to "seven or eight" first-class tournaments around the Bay Area, according to coach Pete Hayward.

The Pirates took two of the best, and toughest — the Riordan tournament in San Francisco Dec. 5-8 and the McClymonds tourney in Hayward Dec. 20-22.

"I just hope we can represent the league (MCAL) well in them," said Hayward, always the pessimist and the perfectionist. Last year, Drake not only hustled and won on the court, but walked away with sportsmanship and cheering section awards as well.

CURSES — Unfortunately for the casual fan, Marin's two December cage tournaments — the College of Marin Invitation Dec. 14-15 and the Drake Pirate Classic Dec. 12-15 — will be played on the same dates this year.

Ohio State Tabbed By Michigan State

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan State Athletic Director Burt Smith, assailed by critics for his refusal to reveal which way he voted after the Michigan-Ohio State tie Saturday, has confirmed he voted against his "sister institution."

Speaking at the Spartan football bust in Lansing last night, the annual awards banquet held to honor Michigan State's football team, Smith said he voted for Ohio State to be the Big Ten's representative in the Rose Bowl game.

"Because of the inordinate amount of discord and emotion which seems to have arisen," Smith said, "I feel it would be in the best interest of the sports public and my university to make a very brief statement on my actions."

The Big Ten athletic directors were polled by telephone last Sunday after the tie game left both Michigan and Ohio State sharing the conference championship.

Smith said he voted for Ohio State "solely on my professional judgment of the athletic merits involved."

"Personalities or institutional jealousies were totally absent from my decision," he said. "Based on my review of the entire footbal season, including the fact that Michigan State played both teams, it was my conclusion that Ohio State best met the definition of the 'most representative team.'"

The director said he was aware of the fact that many persons disagreed with his decision.

Champ Cooper Kayos Morales In Third Round

OAKLAND (UPI) — George Cooper, the California middleweight champ, knocked out Alfredo Morales of Phoenix last night at 1:26 of the third round.

Morales, 152½, was knocked down in each of the first three rounds before referee Louis Gonzalez stopped the bout.

Cooper, 158 ½, of Oakland is the sixth ranked middleweight in the world and this was his 15th knock out. He has a 23-2-2 record.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

A Grip For Chips

By LEE TREVINO

Say you're five feet off the edge of the green, with another 30 feet to the hole. It's a touchy little stroke where "feel" determines how close to the hole you're gonna get.

Some of the touring pros — I don't happen to be one of them — use the reverse overlap putting grip for this shot. Lanny Wadkins says he gets a better feel for distance and keeps the blade on line better. I can't argue the point with a guy who's won more than $100,000 each of the last two years.

The club does feel "soft" in your hands with the overlapping grip, and a short pitch is struck like a putt. A 6-iron works well at that distance because the idea is to get the ball on the putting surface as quick as possible.

On this kind of chip, pitch the ball just far enough to clear the fringe. It'll fly about six feet in the air, then run to the hole.

Try this method if your control goes bad and your grip feels too strong. Just keep your wrists firm and the stroke low to cash in those chips.

NBA Doesn't Want A Merger—Storen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Storen, commissioner of the American Basketball Association, accused the National Basketball Association last night of throwing false issues into the path of the merger towards which both leagues are legally bound to work.

"I just don't think they want a merger," Storen said. "They've been saying all along it's the players and the issue of the option clause which is preventing the merger but that's ridiculous. I doubt if there'll even be an option clause in any sport in a few years."

Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the NBA, said recently only the NBA Players' Association's refusal to sanction a merger without elimination of the option clause was holding up the joining of the two leagues.

Meanwhile, both leagues continue to have several teams operate in the red and many more barely in the black, while paying the highest salaries of any professional sport.

Storen met with Virginia owner Earl Foreman yesterday to discuss the financial situation of a team which dealt away three high-salaried players (Rick Barry, Julius Erving and Swen Nater) and allowed another (Charlie Scott) to jump in four years. Nater was sold to San Antonio a week ago for an estimated $300,000.

"Foreman has paid all his bills to the league and to the arenas but we would like to see his finances a little more secure," Storen said. "There are plenty of teams in the NBA that are losing money but the owners there just are not interested in the merger.

"It's easy to blame the players or Congress or anything else," Storen said, "but the truth is the NBA has been ordered by federal court to negotiate a merger but it just hasn't been acting in good faith. There's no leadership in that league as there used to be when three or four owners held the most power and I doubt many of them really understand the option clause. It's not all that important."

Ex-Pro Footballer Johnston Succumbs

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Former pro football player James E. Johnston has died here at the age of 56.

Johnston played college football at the University of Washington and then played for the Washington Redskins for two seasons before World War II and for the Chicago Cardinals in 1946.

Two 49ers Have Top NFC Marks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two San Francisco 49ers have grabbed leads in their National Football Conference specialties, according to NFC statistics released today.

Rookie Tom Wittum has taken over the punting lead with a 43.2-yard average, while veteran cornerback Bruce Taylor grabbed the punt returns top spot with a 12.1 yards per return average.

Philadelphia quarterback Roman Gabriel is showing his value as the Eagles own leaders in receptions.

Harold Carmichael, the Eagles' 6-foot-8 tower of strength, leads the NFC in receptions with 52. Charles Young, the muscular tight end who may battle Minnesota's Chuck Foreman for NFC Rookie of the Year honors, ranks third behind Washington's Charley Taylor with 43 catches and swift Tommy Sullivan is tops among running backs in receiving with 39. He is tied for fifth overall with Minnesota's John Gilliam.

Alpine Meadows: A Family Place

By CHARLIE COANE

Alpine Meadows has always portrayed a family-type ski area image — catering to the husband and wife team with a few youngsters. The hot-shot skiers were there, but certainly not as noticeable as they were at neighboring Squaw Valley.

There are a few good reasons: Alpine has not had any real back-breaking runs that confront those who, for example, venture down the West Face of KT-22 or the Red Dog chair at Squaw. And Squaw is certainly where most of the singles action is, too. Alpine probably will never go after the singles crowd, but they installed a new chairlift during the summer which has a main run for experts only. The new Scott Chair angles up to the left as you face the area and the Scott Chute run (right down the face) is steeper than any run at Alpine.

"The chair is 2,600 feet long," says Ski School Director Werner Schuster, "with a vertical of 1,060 feet. It's about the same steepness as Squaw's West Face, only about half as long. It should be a very interesting run. By comparison, our Summit Chair is 5,420 feet with 1,565 vertical."

The Chute is certainly too steep for a snow tractor, and I would imagine a few moguls will develop. The chair also opens up two new intermediate runs: Ridge Run and Standard Run.

The new lift gives Alpine a total of eight chairs and five pomas — providing an uphill capacity of 9,000 skiers per hour, but Alpine feels 6,000 is the maximum. Many people have been under the misconception that Alpine closes its parking lot when it reaches a certain number of cars. Not true. "It holds 1,700 cars and 30 busses," says Schuster, "but we've never closed it."

Ever wonder how an area figures out how long its lift lines will be? One measurement is how long a skier takes — round trip — on a given run. "Our Summit Chair," reports Schuster, "takes 12 minutes to the top. Some skiers take 20-25 minutes. I would say the average skier takes a little longer to come down the summit than to ride up."

A thorn in the side of Alpine Meadows during the past few years has been the log jam at the rental shop on weekend mornings.

Pedersen Wins Football Award At Drake High

Guard-linebacker George Pedersen of Drake High School received the Hickerson Award as the team's outstanding lineman last night at a football banquet at the school.

for a total of 63 points. His 52-yard field goal for Cal Poly (winner in nine of 10 games) was a school and conference record.

ALSO FROM THE football scene, halfback George Adams from Redwood was second to Jim Datrice in rushing for Saint Mary's College, 234 yards to Datrice's 1,010. Tim Hanrahan, Marin Catholic grad, rushed for 64 yards but was used more for blocking for Datrice, who has been heralded for little All-America honors by Saint Mary's backers.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Dillingham Has Good Potential

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My nephew works for Dillingham Corp. (NYSE) and my sister purchased shares at $25. Now it is down to $7. Should I also buy shares? — D.H.

A. Dillingham pushed earnings up 45 per cent in the first nine months of this year. Operating revenues were 12 per cent higher than in the 1972 interim. DHM, one of the largest construction companies in the Pacific Basin, has recently announced a joint condominium project to be built on Maui. The improved level of profitability is encouraging, although the stock market may be slow in revaluating the issue. Hold/buy.

Q. We have an elderly friend in a nursing home who recently sold $80,000 worth of stock. The money was reinvested in Group Securities Apex Fund, Fidelity Bond-Debenture Fund, Chase Fund of Boston and Chemical Fund. This was done on the advice of her lawyer in order to provide her with monthly income through withdrawals. She would like some reassurance on the choice of mutual funds. Any help or suggestions would be appreciated. — C.C.

A. Your elderly friend is fortunate in having a good adviser as well as two thoughtful friends. Three of these four mutual funds seek to provide growth through common stock investments. One aims for income by investing in debt securities. Of the three growth funds, one, Chemical, has a superior record for performance. Although Chase Fund's record is somewhat below average long term, shares responded well in the recent stock market rally. I would advise retaining both.

Apex, the third growth fund, has a less impressive record and shares could be exchanged advantageously for those of another Group Security Fund, the Balanced Fund. This fund's investment objectives are income, stability and growth. The yield from income dividends is indicated at 4 per cent. Your friend will not be required to pay the load fee a second time in order to exchange shares since both funds are under the same management.

Fire Deaths

NEW YORK (UPI) — A total of 11,900 persons died in fires last year, an increase of 50 over the total in 1971, the Insurance Information Institute said.

Red Boy Pizza Restaurant To Open In Downtown San Rafael

Another Red Boy Pizza restaurant will open in downtown San Rafael about February of next year.

Peter and Kathleen Forstner of Kentfield, who also operate Red Boy Pizzas in San Francisco and at the Alpha Beta Shopping Center in Larkspur, will open the San Rafael shop at 1115 Fourth Street, directly across the street from Rafael Theater, the old site of Devan's Jewelers.

The Red Boy Pizza in San Rafael will be larger than the other two but similar in operation, with 15 to 18 tables for eating on the premises. Red Boy Pizza features eastern style pizzas, hot Italian sandwiches, large submarine sandwiches, beer and wine, soup, salads, spaghetti and ravioli.

Forstner opened his first Red Boy Pizza in San Francisco four years ago and added the Larkspur shop last June.

THE BALCONY ART Gallery will open this Saturday in Sausalito at 538 Bridgeway, opposite The Trident restaurant, in space formerly occupied by the Balcony Oriental rugs.

Owner of the new art gallery, Ron Morano of Sausalito, said the new shop will carry his own etchings and paintings by San Francisco artist L. (John) Evans, known for his Victorian homes.

Moran's etchings cover a variety of subjects such as landscapes, street scenes, nature and character study, covering a period dating back to 1850. For the past five years, Morano and Evans traveled throughout the United States, presenting art shows.

The Balcony Art Gallery will be open seven days a week, featuring art in action by the two artists.

Boosey

Harrington

The office, headed by manager Kenneth Boosey and aided by operations officer Mary Harrington, won the award for savings operations and customer service in competition with 33 Northern California branches of American Savings. This is the fourth time that the Terra Linda branch has been so honored.

FIRESTONE TIRE & Rubber Co. is seeking approval from the City of Novato for a new branch tire sales and service shop to be built next year along Redwood Highway, north of Grant Avenue.

"We still need approval from the city, and so it will be several months before the details can be worked out," said Arvid O. Moe of Concord, real estate negotiator for Firestone.

If the company gets the go-ahead, it will build a new plant similar to the Firestone sales and service shop located in San Rafael at Fourth and Irwin streets.

Petrie, who has been in the service station business for 25 years, owned and operated four service stations in San Francisco before taking over the Mill Valley station.

Scotty's Chevron provides tune-ups, brake service, and minor mechanical work and has licenses for smog devices and headlight checking.

A WINE SPECIALIST in San Anselmo plans to establish a new firm called Grand Pacific Winery at 35 Oak Knoll Avenue in San Anselmo to manufacture champagne.

Richard B. Dye, who teaches wine study at San Francisco State University, has applied for a wine grower's license. If he gets his permit, Dye plans to open his new firm about the first of January to make his own brand of champagne for wholesale to stores and may eventually go into retail sale.

Dye completed two years of study toward his master's degree at the University of California at Davis and has been teaching at both College of Marin and at San Francisco State.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE Insurance Co. has added four new staff members in its San Rafael office at 4340 Redwood Highway, District Manager Ross E. Bracken announced.

The four are Tom Vizard of Tiburon, Don Merritt of Santa Venetia, Bill Hillman of Petaluma and Steve Golden of Terra Linda.

FESTIVAL OF TREES will open tomorrow at Marin Veterans' Memorial Building for the annual sale of unique ornaments, decorated trees and award-winning exhibits professionally handcrafted by more than 500 Marin residents. Hours of sale are Friday from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The festival is sponsored by the guilds of the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Science in San Rafael.

HANDCRAFTED PLANTERS by Harry Zemansky of Greenbrae will be displayed at Wells Fargo Bank in Greenbrae during the month of December.

Zemansky, who has appeared in many art shows in the Bay Area, owns a shop at 1924 Polk Street in San Francisco.

FIRST AMERICAN TITLE Co. of Marin will hold open house in its new building at 600 Fifth Avenue in San Rafael on Friday from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

FOX & CARSKADON Inc. Realtors announced that Sandy Tang and Larry Moore, both of Terra Linda, have joined its sales staff in the Northgate office.

Mrs. Tang, a Marin resident for 18 years, worked for Sthymmel Realty in Terra Linda for a year and a half before joining Fox & Carskadon. Moore, a resident of Marin for seven years, is a Million Dollar Club salesman.

ARLO P. BENSTON of Greenbrae was appointed manager of the Tiburon office of Grubb & Ellis Company.

Benston joined Grubb & Ellis in 1970 after serving as national retail sales manager for Foremost-McKesson Inc. He served as Air Force captain during World War II and holds a degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

Stock Drop Aggravated By Mideast

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices retreated today after vigorous gains the previous day on the New York Stock Exchange, with selling aggravated by some gloomy Middle East developments.

Blue chips and glamor issues that had gained sharply the previous day were the hardest hit in today's early profit taking, as declines led advances, 755 to 495 among the 1,644 issues traded.

Selling was accelerated by signs of a possible breakdown in the Middle East ceasefire, analysts said. Talks between Arab and Israeli military representatives apparently have broken down, and Soviet leader Leonid Breshnev reportedly has warned of "a new and even more dangerous military explosion ..."

On the American Exchange, stocks weakened in moderate trading. Houston Oil & Minerals was the volume leader, off 1 ⅞ to 53 ⅛ on 19,500 shares. Southern California Edison preferred "H" followed, unchanged at 16 ⅝ on 15,300 shares, and Syntex was third off 1 ⅝ to 118 ¼ on 13,300 shares.

Many Ways For Family To Help Save Energy

By CLAYTON JONES
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Just how much can the individual or family do to help ease the energy crisis?

Plenty, say energy experts, if you want to alter your life-style —and spend money.

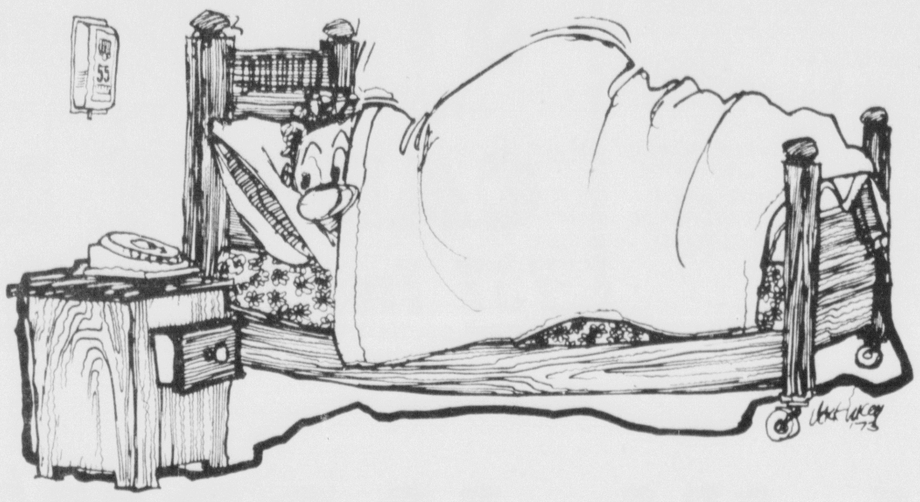
Gas pilot lights use about 50 per cent of the natural gas burned in a gas stove. Electric spark starters can do just as well for igniting and range above $15, according to stove sellers. Matches are even cheaper.

Timed thermostats on the home furnaces which would automatically lower house temperatures 5-10 degrees and give energy savings of about 13-25 per cent sell for over $100. Also, thermostats that register below the normal lowest temperature of 55-60 degrees can be purchased for $14 or above.

And if you really want to do some energy belt-tightening this winter, you can buy a microwave oven. It uses one-fifth less energy than an electric stove. Its cost: $500.

The more frugal energy-savers may find it a better idea to exchange 40-watt light bulbs for 100-watt bulbs with savings of $1.38 over the life of the bulb.

Better yet, a 40-watt fluorescent bulb is brighter than a 100-watt incandescent bulb, lasts ten times longer, and uses one-third the energy. But again it costs money to install fluorescent bulbs.



COOLING IT — Turning down your thermostat can conserve a good deal of energy and also cut down the size of your gas and electric bill. But there's not much gained if you cool it down and then get in bed and plug in the electric blanket to keep warm.

(Sketch by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey)

And more car owners are investing in tuneups. Tuneups every six months for every car in the US could conserve 200,000 barrels of oil a day, energy leaders estimate.

Freezers and refrigerators are one of the largest electricity gobblers in the home. One spokesman at the Electric Energy Association has devised a test to find leaks: shut the refrigerator door on a dollar bill. If you can pull it out easily, then you need to take nine more dollars or so and buy a new door gasket.

Home heating experts also warn that plugging leaks in a house may require more than stop-gap solutions. Installing storm windows and heat-absorbing glass keeps much of the heat inside a home (but they are expensive). More chilling problems are the gaps under doors and windows. Yu can cut fuel bills by about 4 per cent if you are willing to purchase weather stripping and plug the crack, says the Department of Agriculture. But masking tape or caulking may do just as well.

More financially drastic measures to hold in the heat would be to insulate the walls and ceiling. A three to six-inch insulation could cut energy cost by 20 to 30 per cent, says the National Fuel Oil Institute.

Government figures indicate that by "leak plugging" in the home Americans could save the equivalent of 7.3 million barrels of oil a day by 1980, roughly two-thirds of our import needs.

That means a lot of hot air for many American homes — if they pay now. Other steps suggested by some energy spokesmen include buying flat-bottom aluminum pans with tight tops, or black-and-white TVs instead of the energy-hungry color sets, or non-frostfree refrigerators which cost $45 less a year to run and use half the juice, or even a bicycle if you don't have one.

The ultimate purchase to keep consumers from "fueling" around, says one oil industry spokesman, is to buy a good pair of walking shoes for those Sundays when gas stations are closed.

Students Checking Earth's Pulse

by STEPHEN WEBBE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

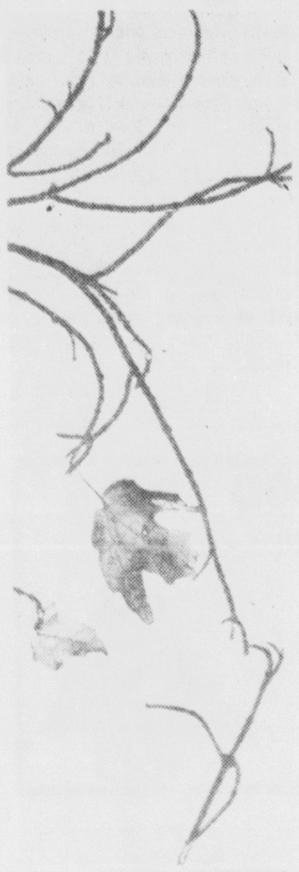
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — In an unusual project devised by the Smithsonian Institution, students throughout the world are helping to feel the pulse of the planet.

As members of the Iternational Environmental Alert Network (IEAN), a monitoring system set up earlier this year by the institution's Center for Short-Lived Phenomena (CSLD), over 44,000 secondary school and university level students throughout the U.S. are busy observing and documenting unpredictable and short-lived natural events.

In addition, 600 foreign students from as far afield as Singapore, Ghana, South Korea and Brazil are taking part in the scheme.

"The network is a means by which the world's student population can contribute directly to increasing man's knowledge of the frequency, magnitude, and geographical distribution of both natural and man-caused events that have an impact on the environment and ecological systems," said IEAN's program manager John Whitman.

Whitman said that network members report to the CSLP on such matters as bird and fish kills; animal population increases, migrations, or mortalities; oil and chemical spills; unusual defoliation; pesticide, herbicide, and other toxic substance contamination; and unusual atmospheric, water, and land pollution.



WILL SPRING RETURN? — Students through the world are presently engaged in taking the earth's pulse to ensure that leaves on this tree will return again next spring.

The center, set up in 1968 to receive and disseminate information about transient natural events to the world scientific community, then verifies, researches, and judges reports "for thier significance as events that offer unique field research opportunities to scientists."

Suitable events are then documented on postcards and sent both to the network's student sensors and the CSLP's 2,300 scientific correspondents around the globe, who in the last five years have reported on such clssics as the Malaysian frog war, the Tanzanian army worm outbreak, and the Amazon River porpoise disappearance.

Whitman said students have reported 40 per cent of all events communicated to the center this year. These included a brown-tailed butterfly outbreak in Belgium, a deer starvation along the Mississippi, and a fish kill in the Jordan River.

The center also has prepared short-term projects in which students provide scientists with samples and observational data.

"To test the feasibility of using students in systematically observing and sampling the environment, the center, under the direction of two Smithsonian Institution botanists, has developed a bamboo survey project in the United States," Whitman said.

In this project, he explained, students from all 50 states and the District of Columbia are finding out whether or not bamboo grows in their respective areas, and, if so, whether or not it is flowering.

"Flowering in bamboo is a rather rare and little understood event," he said. He added that if the survey is successful scientific institutions will be invited to develop monitoring porgrams "utilizing enthusiastic students as frontier watchmen of the global environment."

Volunteers to feel the pulse of the planet may write to the International Environmental Alert Network, Smithsonian Center for Short-Lived Phenomena, 60 Garden Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Tunney Proposes Scenic Parkway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Creation of a 53-mile national scenic parkway as the first step toward the establishment of the Santa Monica Mountain National Urban Park has been proposed by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.

A bill introduced Tuesday by Tunney and co-sponsored by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., would designate Mulholland Drive between Griffith Park and Point Mugu as a parkway.

In a related action, Tunney urged that 13 acres of government owned land at Point Mugu be turned over to the state for park purposes.

The request for the surplus land was made in a letter to General Services Administrator Arthur Sampson.

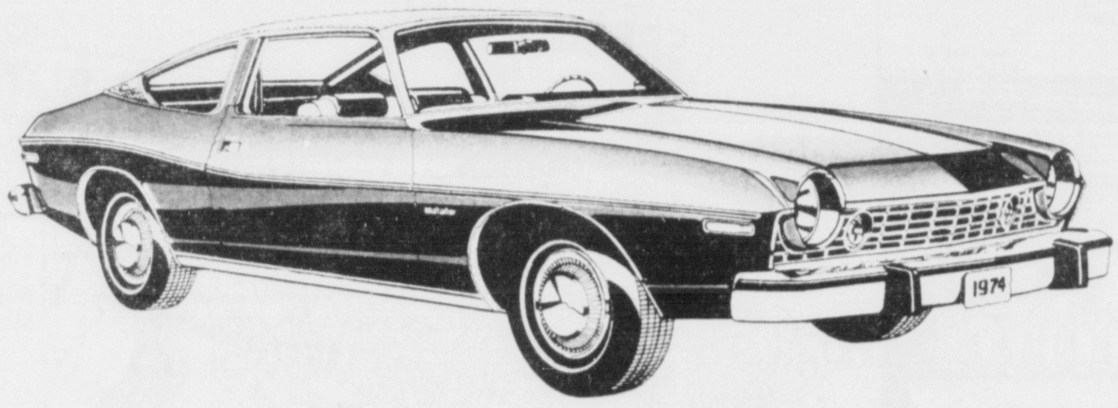
a new name and a new idea in selling cars

JAY HOLLIS AMC/JEEP

Marin Headquarters for Gremlin, Matador, Hornet, Ambassador and Jeep

These are the American cars gaining fastest in popularity



With the increasing cost of driving, higher prices for gasoline, and rationing in the immediate future, car owners must have the best possible performance from their cars at the lowest possible cost. And that's exactly what we offer today.

If you are buying a new car we offer the highest price we can afford to pay for your old car and full value in the car you buy. Then, your new AMC car is backed by the AMC Buyer Protection Plan. It says: If anything we did goes wrong with your new AMC car (except tires) in the first 12,000 miles or 12 months, we fix it free.

Isn't that the way you like to do business?

AMC BUYER PROTECTION PLAN

1. A simple, strong guarantee!
When you buy a new 1974 AMC car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship. This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an AMC Dealer.

2. A free loaner car from almost every one of our dealers if guaranteed repairs take overnight.

3. Special Trip Interruption Protection.

4. And a toll free hot line to AMC Headquarters.
